Greenleaf update

Sara Minsky/Guilfordian

In Issue 15, The Guilfordian reported on the closing of the Greenleaf. We revealed how building codes were violated and necessary permits were not acquired before construction of the new Greenleaf began.

Recently several changes were made to the space. New doors have been added outside. These do not require a Quaker card to open them, so CCE students and people from outside our campus can visit the space.

There is also a sign posted outside that gives a warning about construction occurring in the area.
