

ANNUAL MAY FETE COMPLETE SUCCESS

5. "Maytime" (Solo dance)—Miss Rachel Carroll.
6. Scene given by Robin Hood and his Merry Men.
7. Scene from Goldilock and the Three Bears.
8. "Merriment" (Solo dance)—Little Miss Emily Daye.
9. May Pole Dance.
10. Awarding of prizes by the May Queen.

Cunning boutonnières, daintily dressed dolls, paper dolls and refreshments in the shape of candy, lemonade and ice cream cones were sold for the benefit of the Y. W. C. A., the Receiving Home for Children and the Salem College Endowment Fund. Quite a neat sum was realized for these good causes.

A delightful Punch and Judy show was given in the library at the close of the outdoor program. This was a real Punch and Judy show which came all the way from Atlantic City for the occasion.

The big parade was a great success. In it were tiny boys and girls on decorated kiddie cars and tricycles, little girls pushing dainty doll carriages, small boys drawing express wagons, larger boys and girls on decorated bicycles, a pony wagon, and even two camels which were really four boys—all passed three times before the spectators.

After the parade the May Queen, little Miss Fritz Fierey, regally gowned in white satin trimmed with pearls, made her grand entrance. She was followed by her brilliantly attired attendants who were all dressed in white with attractive white and blue, white and pink, and white and lavender combinations. The chief courtier was Master Marion Follin. The queen's attendants were: Miss Elizabeth Burke, lady-in-waiting, Misses Margaret Williams and Mary Lou Pannill, maids-in-waiting, Master Baxter Moore, Jr. and Mr. William Coan, Jr., pages. The flower bearers were little Miss Eloise McCorkle, Masters Agnew Bahnson, Jr. and John Griffith Ogburn. The ladies-in-waiting were Misses Lucy Follin, Margaret Eaton, Louise Galloway, Janet Lowe, Dell Pannill, Virginia Sharp, Janet Blum, Evelyn Barber and Mary Creech. Masters Robert Gorrell, John Gorrell, John Morris, Charles Norfleet, Jr., Tom Barber Follin, Thomas Wilson, Franklin Wilson, J. J. Norman, Jr. and Julian Lowe were gallant knights of the queen. At the blast of the trumpet the crown was placed upon the head of the queen and she was proclaimed queen of the May.

After the crowning of the queen a charming little interpretive dance was given by little Misses Margaret Gorrell, Dorothy Tutt and Josephine Coan. This was entitled "The Three Rosebuds" and was all the name implies.

The scene from Cinderella was well acted by those who took part in it. Miss Dorothy Tutt took the part of Cinderella, Miss Virginia Tutt and Mildred Cunningham, the proud sisters, Miss Elizabeth Smitherman, the mother, Miss Margaret Burke, the fairy godmother and Master L. P. Tyree the prince. All of them appeared just as we have them pictured in our minds from the familiar story of childhood.

Miss Rachel Carroll, in costume of airy white, beautifully interpreted "Maytime" in a dance by that title.

Robin Hood and his Merry Men, Jas. Harper, L. C. Bruce, James Pfohl, Raymond Brietz, Moody Gaither, Hall Kirkman, Edgar Pierce, and Joe Wesley, now come upon the scene and drank the health of their queen.

Another charming fairy story scene, Goldilocks and the Three Bears, was enacted by Miss Frances Cooke, who took the part of Goldilocks and Masters Ray Cooke, Jr., George Orr, and James Lynch, who were the three bears.

Little Miss Emily Daye gave an interpretation dance "Merriment." This was charmingly executed and the springy lightness of her step had in it the real merriment of childhood.

The two May poles were the next objects of interest. Misses Margaret Brookes, Adelia Sheppard, Elizabeth Smith, Virginia Tutt, Frances Coleman, Emily Daye, Clemmons Brown, Athenia Campourakis, Marguerite Burke, Helen Lacy, Mildred Cunningham, Eleanor Franklin, Martha Thomas, Rachel Carroll, LeVaughn Butner, and Geraldine Kirkman delighted the May Queen and spectators with this characteristic dance of the May. They gracefully danced around the May poles, wearing the dainty colored ribbons.

The Queen awarded the prizes of the afternoon as follows:

Boy's Bicycle—Claude Long.
 Girl's Bicycle—Ann Maslin.
 Boy's Tricycle—Bob Karickadees.
 Girl's Tricycle—Dorothy Lashmit.
 Kiddie Kar—Shirley Smith.
 Doll Carriage—Tie between Eleanor Williamson and Janet Gray.
 Express Wagon—Harold Long.
 Costumes—Tie between Eleanor Meinung and Companion and John Griffith Ogburn.

Honorable Mention—Florence Hunt Pannill.

Three different Punch and Judy shows were given in the library and immensely enjoyed by the crowds who witnessed each.

The success of the second May Fete takes it off trial and makes it an established custom. We look forward in happy anticipation to many more such joyous occasions in years to come.

COLLEGE JOURNALISM MAKES ANOTHER STEP FORWARD

Dr. Boatwright, President of Richmond University and a response from Mr. Parrish of University of Virginia, the committees necessary for carrying out the work of the convention were appointed. Mr. Cotton of Johns Hopkins was made chairman of the committee on organization, and Mr. Doubles of Davidson, chairman of the committee on nominations.

The opening address of the convention was delivered by Mr. John Stewart Bryan, secretary of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, who discussed newspapers as the source of public sentiment.

Parts of the program of this convention which served as direct aid to college newspapers were the suggestions offered by numerous colleges during the round table discussions. Plans and methods for operating the business end of the paper, technical requirements of an A1 college newspaper, and editorials were taken up and discussed in detail. An hour was given to these discussions each morning.

Lunch on Friday was served on the beautiful campus of Westhampton by the girls of that college. The entire afternoon was given over to an automobile journey, visiting not only historic spots of old Richmond but the places of newer interest as well. The Times-Dispatch office was explored during the time the afternoon edition was being published.

Friday night at eight-thirty, the appointed hour, the banquet began. After several courses of much enjoyed dinner, Dr. John W. Cunliffe, director of the School of Journalism at Columbia University, spoke entertainingly and instructively on the theory of journalism. Dr. Douglas Freeman, editor of the Richmond News-Leader, and probably one of the most widely known and influential men in Virginia, considered the practical side of journalism and expressed his interest in the current college newspapers and the work awaiting the college newspaper workers when they finish their jobs in school.

The second day's program began with a brief talk by Coach Frank M. Dobson of Richmond University, on the relations that should exist between college athletics and the college paper, and the part the college newspaper is capable of playing towards making successful teams. He also emphasized the importance of having "good sports" on the staff for athletic editors.

As the Saturday morning session closed the business proceedings of the convention, the reports from the committees were next in order. Mr. Cotton of Johns Hopkins, as chairman of the committee on organization, submitted a constitution and by-laws which were adopted with a few changes.

The report of the committee on nominations was made by the chairman, Mr. Doubles, of Davidson College. The following names were submitted to the assembly: For president, Mr. Charles F. Leek of the "Collegian", University of Richmond; for secretary and treasurer, Mr. Garst, also of the "Collegian"; for vice-presidents, Miss Wells, of the "Sun-Dial", Randolph-Macon Woman's College; Mr. Denmark of the "Emory Wheel", Emory University; and Mr. Deitch, of the "Orange and White," University of Tennessee. All of the names were accepted.

The session adjourned until next year. The closing event of the convention was the University of Richmond-Catholic University baseball game.

There were thirty-five delegates present, representing twenty-two Southern colleges. Miss Marie Edgerton and Miss Mary Shepard Parker represented "The Salemite."

The purpose of this convention was to form a Southern Inter-Collegiate Newspaper Association in order to bring Southern collegiate newspapers into closer relationship; and to strive to have more, bigger, and better college newspapers by meeting annually to discuss and offer solutions to the problems of each member of the association.

This association has started off with the right spirit and there is no reason why it should not mean as much to the Southern colleges as a similar one has meant to the Northeastern colleges for the last several years. The time and place for the next meeting of the association has not yet been decided upon.

PRESS ASSOCIATION MEETS AT DAVIDSON

held in the Bachelors Hall, where everybody became acquainted with everybody else.

The next meeting was held Saturday morning, when several instructive talks were made by editors and business managers of various college newspapers. These talks contained much first hand information concerning the difficulties of running a college newspaper and their remedies. In the business session of the executive committee which followed, the constitution was somewhat changed.

In the afternoon the delegates attended the Citadel-Davidson baseball game.

Saturday night everybody enjoyed a banquet at "The-House-Around-the-Corner." During the course of the banquet short entertaining talks were made by members of the faculty of Davidson College. Afterwards a business meeting was held during which officers were elected for next year as follows: President, Miss Anne Cantrell, N. C. C. W.; first vice-president, Miss Sarah Lingle, Salem College; 2nd vice-president, W. E. Horner, Carolina; secretary, Miss Emmeline Goforth, N. C. C. W.; treasurer, L. J. Bray, Elon.

The association is to hold its next meeting at N. C. C. W. and it is being looked forward to with much pleasure.

The Salemite is planning to put into effect some of the valuable suggestions made at Davidson.

TENNIS DOUBLES

Look out for the near future! The inter-class tennis doubles tournament will be played before May 20. Know who your players are, and help them out by a little co-operation; play with them when they ask you to, so as to make them "fit", and then come out and "root" for them when they play. Be wide awake and help make these final games a success. Come out for the finals and watch "home talent."
