Red Cross Roll Call and the Week of Prayer. How appropriate that these two should come together; the one for world fellowship through service and sympathy, and the other for world fellowship through understanding. On all hands we see increasing evidences of the broader outlook and interest of the average citizen, and of the student, and when these two factors combine their wills and influence, things are very likely to go their way. For years the average citizen and the student have supported the Red Cross as a worthy cause; let us now conceive of it as an important factor in bringing about world peace. It is one of the very few world organizations, and it speaks a world language—that of mercy and of love. The great student body and public of this nation are, doubtless, in favor of world peace, but, seeming far from danger, they do not realize the necessity of the vigorous expression of this sentiment and of immediate action in attaining its end. Let us support the Red Cross organization, and respond to the Week of Prayer as the tasks in hand for the furtherance of this great cause.

What is your idea of class-room honor? That is an important question, not only because it shapes your own destiny but because of the influence it has on others. Your sentiments on the subject plus those of your fellows equal public opinion, and public opinion in turn makes that of those who always follow its dictates. This responsibility is greater than you realize. In the classroom, on tests or examinations, or daily recitations your actions manifest your conception of honesty. It's up to you.

"SAY IT WITH FLOWERS."

N. P. Lindberg, originator of the slogan, "Say it with flowers," was killed in an auto accident in North Dakota. As you suspected, he was a florist.

His famous four-word slogan has sold more flowers than any 10,000 florists that ever lived. And the slogan was not carefully thought out. Lindberg coined it off-hand, almost absentmindedly, in conversation at a national florists' convention.

That is what a gambler calls chance. It is chance, the sudden appearance of the unexpected, that shapes our destinies and makes life interesting. Never get discouraged. Chance probably has something better in store.

FROM RANDOLPH MACON.

A key to the literature of the world will be found in the Institute International de Bibliographic in Brussels when the indexing of the chief literary works of all the nations is completed. Twelve million entries have been made to date.

The University of Oregon has been presented a front page of the New York Herald for April 11, 1865, containing the account of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln. The page is framed and will be hung in the main offices of the School of Journalism.—"The Sun Dial", R. M. W. C., Lynchburg, Va.

ANOTHER ARGUMENT FOR TUCKER SITE.

Mr. Johnson Endorses Action Taken by Meredith Trustees.

The agitation for the removal of Meredith College has broken out in a new place. Dr. Paschal in an article in last week's Biblical Recorder strongly advocates the removal of Meredith to Wake Forest. 150 acres of land is offered free as an inducement, and the advantages of having the two institutions in the same community are presented with the skill for which Dr. Paschal is famous.—"The Twig," Meredith College, Raleigh, N. C.

RED CROSS—BIG FEATURE OF WEDNESDAY CHAPEL SERVICE.

Succeeding Miss Blanton, Mr. Rights stated that America was taking the lead of the forty-two organizations throughout the world. He went a little more into detail about the work both at home and abroad, stating that in the East relief the Red Cross had had to pay $50,000 for medical supplies alone. The roll call, he added, is to be taken in Winston-Salem the 18th, 20th and 21st of the month. The period of time for all chapters extends from Armistice Day until Thanksgiving. The membership fee is $1.00, 50c of which goes to the national organization. In bringing his short talk to a close, Mr. Rights quoted General Pershing who said, "The war could not have been won as it was won without the Red Cross and the Red Cross could not have been carried on as it was carried on without the women and girls of America."

Mr. Heath, in taking up the matter of how this roll call should be taken up by the school, asked for suggestions from the student body. The motions were made, seconded and carried unanimously that it be taken up by the classes of the Academy and College and that committees be appointed by the presidents to canvass the student body. In the Academy the class presidents, together with their respective class teachers, will make up this committee. Dean Shirley will canvass the faculty. With this effective organization within the school we cherish hopes for a large membership.

THE COUNTY FAIR.

But the end was not yet, for another crier called attention to a very exciting performance called "Larn ter Luve", which proved instructive as well. Of course the free exhibits of freaks were visited by all present. We hope that all our guests emptied their pocket-books and went home satisfied with their visit. We do know that there were no requests for a refund of the admission price.

Did you go to the county fair?
 Well, you missed lots of fun by not being there.
