

SOCIALS.

Mary Lindsey Stafford went away,
But she didn't go to stay—
To High Point on the jitney she went
And with her cousin the week-end spent.

Mrs. L. L. Moore, of Taylorsville, has been visiting her daughter, Miss Eliza Gaston Moore. While in the city Mrs. Moore attended the Sunday School Convention.

Mrs. E. R. Kirk and daughter, Miss Hazel, arrived Saturday morning to be present at the graduating recital of Miss Dorothy Kirk.

It's such a long ways from Salem to Macon,
And Mary Lou was tired of apples and
bacon,
So off to Fayetteville she did hie,
And gained ten pounds eating pie.

Miss Ethel Cox spent last week-end in High Point with her sister, Mrs.
T. V. Rochelle.

Miss Rosa Caldwell is spending the week-end at her home in Concord.
She motored down with Mr. and Mrs.
Ben Mathews, and will return to school Sunday afternoon.

Margaret Whitaker's father spent Wednesday in Winston-Salem.

Miss Ruth Womelsdorf of Cartersville, Ga., is visiting Miss Alice Dunklee.

JOKES.

E. Zachary (after the orchestra concert) "Doesn't Edward Rondthaler play the hobo well?"

Raye Dawson (buying spring coat)
"That is higher than I want to pay."
Clerk: "Oh, but that's not the real price. We are having a reduction today for all factory girls."

Dot Kirk: "Miss Forman didn't think I knew what a silo was".

Mary Warren: "Of all things! Anybody ought to know that it was a storm out on the desert."

Dean Shirley: "Tell me about
"Lohengrin", Miss Whitaker.

M. Whitaker: "He was the man who wrote the wedding march".

Mary Alta Robbins (showing varsity volley-ball pin) "Oh Una! Look what I've just got."

U. Lindsay: "What?"
Mary Alta: "A pin from Vassar my beau just sent me. You know he goes up there."

Floia Binder: "And Sarah he wants to get married!"

Sarah Herndon: "Who to?"

A SEVERE CASE OF ABSEND-MINDEDNESS.

A student in History 6 who returned to Salem last Wednesday morning for the express purpose of attending that class, falling prey to that dread disease forgetfulness, spent the entire class hour in her room chatting with a friend. The next day she found in the mail box the following official notice from the Registrar's office:
"Did you think that life was tedious,
And things moving in a rut
That you stayed away from History
Just to have a "double-cut?"
I have marked it in the Record,
Just aside your little name.
Now it stands for all beholders,
Entered on the roll of Fame!"

S. A. Vogler,
Assistant to the Registrar.
