FRESHMAN

Rachel Sides is back with us again after a week-end at home in which she recuperated from her illness. We're glad you're back, Rachel . . . We wonder why Rhea Gaynelle receives a long distance telephone call every Sunday . . . Margery McMullen is all thrilled about her forth coming week-end at Carolina . . . Becky Mills thinks a certain blond is "so" cute . . . Agnes Mae's suitcase of food certainly went over big last Saturday afternoon . . . Pat Barrow got in the wrong room with her box of candy Wednesday night. It seems everyone in the room had given up candy for Lent.

SOPHOMORE

Come, come, Kelly! Don't tell us that you are throwing "Dash" over for one of those super-super Davidson lads . . . Early seems to be following in Kelley's footsteps. She doesn't have much to say about Tim these days . . . Did you see that slinking look on Esther's face when she came back from Rocky Mount? Those boys must have been something . . . Don't look so sad, Sops. The Carolina boys will be coming back home some week-end . . . Here's a riddle, girls. See if you can solve it. How does Betsy hold two such eligible young men as Brad and Johnny at the same time? . . . Gentlemen prefer blondes. That's the latest flash in the Jackie vs. Lenny affair. The locks are winning over those "smoldering eyes." . . . Cute girl, Patty. You are going to accept the bid to May Frolics, aren't you?

JUNIOR

Anyone who hasn't heard Anne Mewborn's new orchestra should come to room 110 and hear it — it's really marvelous . . . Grace Gillespie is going to spend this week-end at Shelby — Davidson's spring holidays are this week-end also — eh Gracie? . . . Ida Lambeth is going home this week-end, but it won't be just a week-end, because Bill is coming all the way from Maryland to see her — five months is a long time, isn't it Ida? . . . Lib Tuten is going home this week-end, and Jim is going up there Saturday — he can't let her out of his sight — not even for one week-end — oh! — it must be grand!

SENIOR

Why is Lyell on "outs" with a certain suite in Senior? . . . We hear that Louisa and Jim are planning a big week-end in the near future . . . Why is Sneed so anxious for May to get here? . . . For up to the minute Paris styles you should have seen Mac last night . . . Griffo, Tootie, Louisa and Felicia are going up in the hills this week-end. Beware of those Salem canoes! . . . A certain senior went up to a girl at the practice Teacher's dinner, introduced herself, and urged the girl to make herself at home here. Imagine the senior's embarrassment when the girl said "I ought to feel at home, I'm a member of the class!"

DAY STUDENT

Brat says that she has to get some liquid lipstick before she can go back to Charlotte . . . Catherine, what cute Yankee was here last week-end? . . . Sarah, whose letter caused such a commotion in South, Hall Tuesday morning? Some ardent admirer! . . . Betsy O'Brien is terribly excited over going back to Statesville next week-end. Must be someone cute! . . . Smitty, what's this about you and Johnny Glover? It seems our column helped you out . . . Doris Mae seems to be some P. H. She has a different guy from Oak Ridge every week-end but, girls, she had two last week-end . . . Aubrey was home last week-end and once again Eleanor is the attraction . . .

OVERHEARD AT THE CONCERT

by Frances Angelo

"Why doesn't the concert start? I'm tired of waiting, and it's 8:30 now."

"It looks odd to see all these people that I see every day in school clothes, all dressed up tonight."

After the first number:

"Isn't he wonderful? He's much better than I expected."

"I'm so sleepy I don't believe I can keep awake during Debussy. I wish they would turn off the top lights and let me rest in peace."

"Oh, why don't we have a pair of those opera glasses. I want so very much to see Rubenstein's hands. I'm going to ask those people in front of me to lend me theirs for a minute."

"Here, look through these glasses. He has the cutest bald spot right on the top of his head."

At the end:

"My hands are sore from clapping, but I do so want him to play another encore. Oh, goodness, everyone is leaving."

DOODLING

Do you doodle? — Oh yes you do. The chairs in Main Hall classrooms prove it. Remember how you were told in your childhood not to harm the furniture; Well, that still goes, and here is your punishment for writing your private thoughts, favorite fraternities and current boy friends on the chairs — here are the results of a count taken from chairs in Main Hall classrooms. See if you can decide who wrote some of these — you may be the culprit. This isn't a fair representation because of seating chair habits of most of my professors; so don't feel hurt if your favorite school, man, or fraternity didn't make a good showing. Just don't use this as an excuse to do more doodling in order to give your favorite more publicity.

Among the schools, Salem, of course, was found most often. And here is how the others stood in order of their frequency — Davidson appeared the highest number of times, then came: Carolina, Ga. Tech, State, Duke, V. M. I. Dartmouth, Citadel — the following ran an even race: Wake Forest, V. P. I., T. C. U., L. S. U., Wm. and Mary.

In Fraternities, Pi Kappa Alpha led with Sigma Alpha Epsilon in second place and the rest about the same: Beta Theta Pi, Kappa Sigma, Sigma Chi, Zeta Psi (Wonder who's responsible!)

Here are some of the names found. They aren't in order of frequency — that would be telling. Just read 'em and let that be a lesson: Blake, Jimmie, Trent, Bob, De Witt, Broughton, F. L. (can't imagine who put that one), Bill, T. A., Charles, Pearson, Dave, Frank, (yes, this is mean, but don't stop now — there's more coming.)

In addition to all the above were numerous hearts and arrows with initials, or the words: "blank and blank are sweethearts;" also sweet phrases such as: "I love you; Do you love me," probably written with one of the above names in mind. People must get pretty disgusted on class, because the words: "Nuts to you" or just plain "nuts" were quite evident. On one chair were all the words to "Hold Tight," (Thanks, I've been wanting them for weeks). Under the words the doodlers had written: "We think and hope these words are right" very considerate attitude — eh? (Room 11, if you are interested in getting the words.)

We knew Betsy wouldn't stick to her word. She and Ralph were seen together again last week-end . . . Sarah, Mary Alice, Phyllis, and Lena brought drags to the Junior Jamboree and by all appearances the four had a very good time. How about that, Jane? . . . Doris Shore, how 'bout that picture with the . . . Just another P. H.

SALEM TO BE HOSTESS TO S. I. A. S. G. CONFERENCE

annual conference of the Southern Intra-Collegiate Association of Student Government will be held at Salem College. The Executive Board which met here on December 12th and 13th made plans for the conference, and decided on the theme.

The Executive Board is made up of the following girls: president, Betty Jean Brown, of Duke; vice-president, Annette McNeely, of Salem; secretary, Patricia Woodward, of Sophie Newcomb; treasurer, Tommye Walker, of Mississippi State College for Women, and Mary Currie, graduate advisor. The theme of the conference is "to consider student government as the foundation for democracy."

Registration for the conference will be at two o'clock on Monday, the 10th. The executive board will arrive early to be here for the Easter sunrise service, and the other delegates will arrive Monday morning. Each school is allowed to send two delegates, and there will be about one hundred in all. The girls are to stay in Louisa Biting and Alice Clewell Buildings.

A tentative program has been planned, in which there will be discussion groups, led by students from different colleges. Each delegate presents the special problem as it appears on her campus, and the problem as a whole is discussed. These meetings, to be held in the old chapel, are open only to delegates, and one of them will be led by Josephine Hutchison.

There will be addresses by three outside speakers, and on the social program, the delegates are to be taken on a sightseeing tour around town, around Salem campus, and through Reynolds plant. There will be several teas, and on Tuesday night a formal banquet in the dining room, at which each delegate will be given a souvenir of Salem. The conference will end at two o'clock on Wednesday, the twelfth.

The student Government office here has recently been redecorated, with Emma Brown Grantham as head of the Committee.

The colleges that are members of the S. I. A. S. G. and will send delegates are: Agnes Scott College, Decatur, Ga.; Alabama College, Montevallo, Ala.; Brenau, Gainesville, Ga.; Coker College, Hartsville, S. C.; Columbia, S. C.; Converse, Spartanburg, S. C.; Duke, Durham, N. C.; East Carolina Teacher's College, Greenville, N. C.; East Radford Teacher's College, East Radford, Va.; Farmville State Teachers College, Farmville, Va.; Florida State College for Women, Tallahassee, Fla.; Georgia State College For Women, Milledgeville, Ga.; Georgia State Women's College, Valdosta, Ga.; Greensboro College, Greensboro, N. C.; Randolph-Macon, Lynchburg, Va.; Salem College, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Shorter College, Rome, Ga.; Southeastern Louisiana State Institute, Lafayette, La.; Stetson University, Daland, Fla.; Sweet Briar College, Sweet Briar, Va.; University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, Ala.; University of Tennessee, Knoxville, Vanderbilt, Nashville; Wesleyan College, Macon Ga.; Westhampton College, Richmond, Va.; William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Va.; Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C.; Woman's College of Furman University, Greenville, S. C.

I DARE SAY

Mildred Kelly will be ever so grateful if someone will tell her how to dial a dash on the telephone — because she insists that there isn't any dash there to dial.

Carol Cherry was sleeping peacefully the other night when she was awakened suddenly by a noise at the door. Startled she sat up and saw a dark figure moving across the room. "All right," the intruder said, "All right." Cherry recognized her roommate, Lee Rice's voice.

"What is it, Lee?" she asked.

"You promised you'd go over my lines with me? All right, I'm ready now."

Then Lee woke up, astonished. There is a moral in this tale, in case you haven't discovered it yet. If the people in the Pierrette Play are working so hard on their lines that they speak them aloud in their sleep the play certainly ought to be worth coming to see!

DR. RONDTHALER TO ATTEND MEETING OF SOUTHERN ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGES

Dr. Howard Rondthaler will attend the meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges to be held in Memphis, Tennessee, the week of March 27-31. Dr. Rondthaler is president of the Southern Association of Women's Colleges, which is meeting with this group. There are one hundred and twenty colleges in the association, and fifty-six are women's colleges.
