

Dr. J. S. Guy To Speak Nov. 26

Dr. J. Samuel Guy, Professor of Chemistry at Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia, will address Salem students and faculty and the people of Winston-Salem on Monday night, November 26th at 8:00 in Memorial Hall. He will speak on "The Impact of Science on Our Time."

A native of Chester, South Carolina, Dr. Guy graduated from Davidson College with a B. S. degree in 1905. A year later, he took his M. S. degree. In 1910 he had a fellowship at John Hopkins University, and in 1911, he received his Ph. D. degree.

Dr. Guy has done extensive work in the fields of chemistry, especially in physical chemistry and quantitative analysis.

Higgins Speaks On Home Brew

Professor Charles H. Higgins lectured on and demonstrated "The Analysis of Home Brew" at a meeting of the Lablings Tuesday night in Park Hall. He passed among the members a concentrated sample of "home brew" in a fruit jar. Mr. Higgins distilled a sample and showed how the percentage of alcohol in the liquor is determined.

Nell Jane Griffin, president, reminded the members that dues should be paid promptly and that the contest for naming the Lablings' column in the Salemite lasts through November 19.

Coca-cola in beakers was served with cookies.

Sophs Add Juke-Box

A series of weekly entertainments sponsored by the Sophomore class began Tuesday night, November 13, at ten o'clock in Davy Jones' Locker.

The purpose of the informal gatherings is to pay for renting the new juke box, which the Sophomores secured only on the consideration that it pay for itself. The Sophomore Class is unable to undertake all the financial responsibilities; the rest of the student body is asked to help.

The Sophomores promise a new floor show at each one of these entertainments. The surprise Tuesday night was a jitterbug show and included Agnes Quinerly, Ticksa Senter, Isabelle Leeper, Light Joslin, Ann Mills, and Carolyn Taylor.

Play Cast Has Comic Rehearsals

by Bernice Bunn

Practice for Cradle Song is progressing smoothly though there are a few amusing highlights that have caused delay.

Since the girls are to wear flowing robes in the play, Miss Wible asked them to come to practice in housecoats, to get accustomed to working in long robes. "Fine," you say "that's a good idea!" But you didn't see the results! Red brunch coats, pink silk housecoats, yellow negligees, green flannel robes, blue flannel robes—the mottliest crew anyone ever saw.

But the most confusion was caused when Theresa, the young heroine, entered from her walk in the garden dressed in an Annapolis warm-up robe, which immediately broke up the rehearsal until she left the stage and changed.

Then Marilyn Watson got her lines confused and answered the Doctor's question, "And how old are you?" with a bland "Two and a half, sir."

The spectacle of the evening, however, was Betty Hatley, as a seventy year old nun—she who forgot her limp and went charging across the stage on her entrance.

But after all it's common knowledge that the plays with the most distracting incidents are always the most successful.

Home Ec. Club Has Speaker

Miss Evabelle Covington spoke on cake baking and decorating at the monthly meeting of the Home Economics Club held in the Home Management House on Thursday, November 15.

Betsy Thomas, president, took orders for the club pin, that of the American Home Economics Association of which the Salem club is a member. This is the first time the Salem club has adopted a pin.

Plans for a formal tea to be given by the club on December 12 were discussed, and punch and cookies were served.

Pierrettes Join Dramatic Group

The Pierrette Players voted to join the Carolina Dramatic Association in their monthly meeting Tuesday night, November 12. Membership in this association, which was discontinued during the war, enables the Pierrettes to present a one-act comedy in the annual Chapel Hill contest. This play is being selected by the play-reading committee of which Betty Bell is chairman. Members of the club will also present a one-act play at a meeting of the local Little Theater soon.

The club adopted a Pierrette pin, and orders for the pins were taken by Anne Folger, treasurer.

Martha Boatwright, vice-president, who presided in the absence of the president, reported that the Freshman Dramatic Club had made plans to entertain the cast of Cradle Song with a formal tea after their final performance, November 30. Margaret Spillman, business manager, announced that tickets for this production are now on sale, and can be obtained from any Pierrette.

Miss Lewis Speaks

"Peace as an eventual possibility can be brought about by faith in oneself." Each individual working with others and all working together in concord will make peace. "We must not give in to the cynicism of expecting another war."

"Internationalism must triumph over belligerent and selfish nationalism." As the individual must give up individual sovereignty to obtain harmony in civil society, so must nations sacrifice their sovereignty for peace.

"The most important is faith in God. This is a spiritual universe and we must learn the spiritual laws for safety and happiness." The fate of America depends upon our learning and keeping the law of love. "Jesus is practical. The only foundation of faith is in Him and His revelations."

From William James' Is Life Worth Living? Miss Lewis quoted, "Be not afraid of life; believe that life is worth living and your belief will help create the fact."

As a final challenge she gave the quotation, "Let us advance on chaos and the dark!"
