Ambitious Girl Writes Home

Dearest Mother and Daddy,

Certainly is wonderful to be able to relax and just have nothing to do again! From your letter, however, you don't seem very relaxed. I should think you'd be so pleased to have gotten my grades and therefore completely finished with my first semester.

Wasn't that C on religion grand! As for those two D's—why Mother, that really is an excellent grade. I assure you very few people get them. Anyway, just disregard them because I should have had a B in both of them. You see, in Psych, the exam was a little harder than I expected and you know I couldn't resist going out with Bill the night before it. After all, he was going back to Davidson and I wouldn't even talk to him for two weeks. As for that other D, on English—that was absolutely a mistake so don't worry about it a moment longer. It was just that I forgot to write the semester term paper and it appears that that had something to do with our grade! Isn't that odd—

Now I know that E on Math again was kinda bad. But Mama, you can't do arithmetic either and Daddy, I did apply myself. Every night I made myself spend fully an hour on the assignment. Katherine and I worked together so we would be sure to really study. It was quite beneficial too—Mother, don't let me forget to show you the new up-sweep hair-do we figured out. It's a little complicated to get arranged because you have to use soap and fourteen combs but the effect is so satisfying. And we also discovered some perfectly gorgeous new shades of finger-nail polish mixing Chen Yu with Cutex and think of the money we save that way! Katherine is so good with color. So, after all that studying I just don't think that teacher likes me—I'm listening to her explain tomorrow's examples now and you know, every time she looks at me there's an awful glint in her eye. And I pay such good attention too!

As for that French, actually, Mother and Dad, flunking it was the best thing because I just don't like it. Golly, what good will French

One Small Voice

Norma D. Plume

Greatness in our time is rare. One Small Voice feels that it should strain its larynx to give due recognition. Three events of definite magnitude were revealed this week on Salem campus.

Pursuit of Knowledge

Geraldine Purcell, a senior Latin major, wrote a term paper for a history class taught by Mr. Leach. The subject was "The Acts of Defied Augustus"—magnitude in itself. But Gerry did the research for her paper by reading the source material in Latin.

Roses—Enough

Anne Dungan is the second Salemite to make her bid for fame. A high-school sweetheart, who is in the army and is leaving for Germany sent Dunc seventeen (17) dozen red roses. All of second floor Clewell has had a continuous Ferdinand orgy throughout the week. The "donor" is Bus Goodenough.

Proud Papa

Sam Pruett adds to his distinction of being a Salem coed by becoming the father of an eight pound-plus Sam Pruett III. Cigars gratis.

ever do me. Do the French rumba, do they have Carmen Miranda, do they get cute songs like South American Way written about them. No. So now I'm all free to start in on Spanish. After all, the only reason I was taking French was because I was so definitely (you know, seriously) interested in being a countess and all the time the man I had decided on—Count Basie—isn't even a count at all. Mother, he isn't even French!

Well, I'm so glad all those unimportant things are off our minds. Now for the big issues! Bill is coming to the Valentine Dance this week-end and so I'll need a few little things I left at home. My black evening dress, the blue and pink too in case I get bored with the idea of the black, my dark pan-cake makeup, the belt to my green wool, the rhinestone bracelets Dad gave you Christmas, Patsy's new perfume (Mother, she won't know the diff. and after all, I am her sister), my black evening gloves, twenty dollars, and Dad's golf socks. You see we may decide not to go to the dance and go on a Cabin Party.

Certainly do miss you all and am really applying myself, Dad. But I've got to stop now because the bell's rung, and Bill may come over tonight after I get back from the movie this afternoon.

Love you all,
Your darling daughter.

Salemites Play Vigorous Game Of Dancing Hearts

By Mary Bryant

The Athletic Association is throwing its "Brawl"—game tomorrow night in the gym. One would think that they were planning a Heart's Meet with all this "Ring"-ing of baskets and showering of roses. HENNY, wearing her new monogram, will be high scorer with BILL. Of course there will be lots of other players who have scored high enough to be awarded monograms—FRAN'S from BUBBER, BARBARA'S from BEN, DOT'S from ED, JEAN'S from SNOOKIE, TICKA'S from JOHN, MARTHA LOU'S from JESSE, and DEBBIE'S from SART.

As Harold Gale sounds the opening whistle, VIRTIE will probably dash out in her gym suit as Cupid to referee the game. Her arrows will be pointed directly at SAL MILLS and ED. Salem's two centers (of attraction), "APE" GAITHER and AGNES "LEE" QUINERLY, are pretty hard to guard. Their attention will soon be averted to JO PATTERSON dribbling down to court with DUNA. Breaking into the limelight then will be SARAH CLARK, who is a little forward with BILL. PEG DAVIS will probably take her heart outside to make a score with TOM. Along the sidelines BETSY JOHN will be BUD ling "Oh, Davidson, I will conquer ere the night is done." Those time out periods are very short, BETSY. Due to technicalities NELL PENN will get a free shot for PAUL. Be on your guard, girls. Those passes can cause Heart-burn. In the last few minutes of the game, MARY HELEN will still be en-"SID"-ing that she was on the line. The game will be awarded to RUBY, who will without doubt be booger-bearing some six-footer called CHARLIE.

This is only a preview of the GAME OF HEARTS with the Carolina, Duke, and Davidson teams strictly on the offensive.

Anscombe Talks In Assembly

Dr. Anscombe, head of the history department of Salem College, was the speaker at assembly on Thursday morning. His subject was "The Dwelling Place of the Almighty", and he elaborated by giving many concepts of the universe and a challenge to "broaden your horizon and see beyond your noses." At the close of his address, Dr. Vardell, head of the music department of Salem College, rendered for the first time before the student body his arrangement of the Moravian hymn, "Thy Majesty, How Vast It Is".
