years. Not only has his work as a teacher and campus leader been appreciated by both students and administration, but he has performed a rare service to many community agencies in his capacity as psychologist. We will all hate to lose this good friend."

Mr. Evett came to Salem College in 1945 from Boston, Mass., where he was instructor in the Vesper George School of Art. Before his Boston appointment, he taught in several high schools in Denver, Col.

He has received national recognition for his art work, and recently won first prize in the $1,000 art competition sponsored by the North Carolina Art Society.

In his work as director of the Salem College Art Gallery, the young painter brought several exhibits of American contemporary paintings to the campus and community.

Mr. Evett's new work will consist of contacting young artists and arranging for them to go to Hot Springs.

Analysts Report Commentary, Headline News

Washington reports at this writing (April 26) indicate that Congress will pass the Greek-Turkish aid bill by heavy majority and with heavy hearts. Our lawmakers may give the president their loyal support, but how they dread it!

In Palestine, the Acting Chief of Haifai Criminal Investigation Department was shot dead, raising the number of British police casualties as a result of terrorist action in two days to six killed and five injured.

Secretary of State Marshall who returned Saturday, April 26 from Moscow, had no direct comment to make in the recent 'foreign' ministers conference. His only statement was, "We attempted to do our best in the interest of the United States and the world so people can have the peace of mind and comforts of life to which they are entitled as soon as possible."

The apparently irreconcilable claims of Jews and Arabs to the control of Palestine will be brought before the U. N. at a special session of the General Assembly which opens at Flushing Meadow, Queens, on April 27.

By destroying Helgoland, an island in the North Sea, the British have tried to make certain that the Germans can never build another naval base there. Hereafter the island will be inhabited by birds and even they will be watched with suspicion.
