

To the Day Student Center
you must find your way.
To hear all that Dr. Boyd has to say.

The Salemite

He comes from Chapel Hill
and we've waited a year.
So thanks to the "Y" which brought him here!

Volume XXXV

Salem College, Winston-Salem, N. C., Friday, October 22, 1954

Number 4

State Deans Meet Here On Saturday

The Deans of Women throughout the state will meet on Salem campus tomorrow, October 23, for the fall workshop of the North Carolina Association of Deans of Women.

The program consists of speeches, a panel discussion, a business meeting, a coffee hour, a luncheon, and a tour of Old Salem.

Salemities are invited to attend the 10:30 a.m. session in the Day Students' Center. Mrs. Martha Grafton, Dean of Mary Baldwin College, will speak on "Freedom and Responsibility Among Students." At the same meeting, Dr. Dale Gramley, president of the host school, will extend greetings to all delegates at the state meeting.

Following the registration which begins at 9:45 a.m., there will be a coffee hour in the Friendship Rooms of Strong dormitory.

"How can Deans of Women cooperate most effectively with faculty in fostering freedom and responsibility among students?" is the topic of the panel discussion. The moderator will be Sarah Bain Ward, dean of student of Atlantic Christian College.

Officers of the North Carolina Association of Deans of Women are: president, Miss Louise Fleming, dean of students, Meredith College; vice-president, Mrs. Amy Heidebreder, Salem College; and secretary-treasurer, Miss Marcella Harker, placement service, University of North Carolina.

Tomorrow will mark the first time the association has met at Salem College. Mrs. Heidebreder urges Salemities to help make the meeting a success.

Students Talk on Home Lands

"We are all very much alike . . . and we can understand each other," concluded Gull-Mari Lundberg of Sweden in Thursday's United Nations Day chapel program. Her sentiments were echoed by Salem's other foreign students, Erlinda Aubueg of the Philippine Islands and Maria Ines Astorga of Santiago, Chile.

Mrs. Heidebreder, in her introduction of the girls, recalled that since 1951 sixteen students from foreign countries have studied at Salem under the fund set up by Mrs. Hattie M. Strong. These girls deserve to be "known as 'Strong' students, for they build strong friendships . . . between their countries and ours."

Miss Lundberg, speaking first, said "the most exciting moment in my life was when . . . I could see the skyline of New York appearing through the mist." After eight days in the world's largest city, Gull-Mari came to Salem where she was confronted with many new things: 90-degree weather in October, a different kind of educational system, dormitory life, assignments and classes to attend, and church-going on Sunday.

Americans are not more religious, however, concludes Miss Lundberg, except in theory. Standing firmly for non-segregation, Gull-Mari said "the church is no place for social pride and race prejudice."

Erlinda Aubueg of the Philippines spoke second and depicted life and customs in her homeland according to the questions posed by Salemities. Erlinda brought sighs from the crowd with the statement that in Philippine marriages "the bridegroom carries all the expenses."

Miss Aubueg concluded by saying that "the United States is a very wonderful country . . . and I am looking forward to calling

(Continued on Page Six)

Todd Publishes New Paper On Advertisements

The London Bibliographical Society has published a paper by Dr. William A. Todd, head of the Salem College English department, on the "Use of Advertisements in Bibliographical Studies."

In the paper, Dr. Todd demonstrates the value of newspaper advertisements in gaining more complete and accurate information on the history of a book's publication. A review of his paper in the London Times said it should be "required reading" for any aspiring bibliographer.

The Times added that "Professor Todd's examples throw new light on the bibliography of such major figures as Oliver Goldsmith, Alexander Pope and Horace Walpole. In a series of neat demonstrations, he shows the varied ends which advertisements can serve, and there are very few existing bibliographies of authors from the 18th century onwards which could not receive beneficial revision from the application of his methods."

Dr. Todd

Religious Emphasis Week Brings Dr. Boyd To Salem

Dr. Bernard Boyd, connected with student religious activities at the University of North Carolina, will be the featured speaker at Sunday night vespers in little chapel. This service, beginning at 6:30 p.m. instead of the usual 5:00, will mark the opening of the annual Religious Emphasis Week sponsored by the campus Y. W. C. A.

Dr. Boyd

Dr. Boyd's theme for the week, "God and My Personal Problems," will be developed throughout the week in vespers, chapel programs and talks for the students. Under this general topic, Dr. Boyd will speak on "My Loyalties," "My Outlook," "My Love," and "Myself."

On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights at 6:45 Dr. Boyd will be speaking informally in the Day Students' Center. Arrangements are being made for times when he will be able to talk with individual students and counsel them in various aspects of personal religious life.

Dr. Boyd, chairman of the Department of Religion at Carolina, has held similar positions at Davidson College and at Presbyterian College. A graduate of Presbyterian College and Princeton University, he received his doctorate at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va.

Religious Emphasis Week is a period of the year greatly anticipated by Salemities. During this week, Dr. Boyd will become part of school life at Salem. He will live on campus in the Alumnae House and will be eating in the dining room.

All Salemities are invited to an informal coffee in honor of Dr. Boyd to be held in the Friendship Rooms of Strong after vespers on Sunday night.

"Life" Features Old Salem

A picture story on the restoration of Old Salem is appearing in the current issue of Life magazine, dated Oct. 25.

The article, one of Life's "visits," is entitled "Moravian Town Re-visited" and shows pictures of typical Old Salem scenes and relics—the Old Church, the parlor of the Lick-Boner house, the Brothers' House, the cemetery, the handmade staircases, octagonal wrought iron rails and other characteristic features of the community.

A short historical sketch of the settlement is also presented, including present plans for near-complete restoration by 1966, Old Salem's 200th anniversary.

Finance Board Discusses Plans

The fall meeting of the Finance Board was held Monday, October 18, in the Day Students Center, with Nancy Peterson, Treasurer of the Student Government, acting as Chairman.

Nancy explained the functions and purpose of the Finance Board which is composed of the treasurers of all campus organizations and the advisers of each group. The Student Budget for the present year has already been distributed to each treasurer in the form of estimate slips and must be filed in the Office of the Dean by October 29.

Nancy appointed Gertrude Johnson, Carolyn Kneeburg, and Maggi Blakeney to evaluate this year's budget and to reappropriate, if necessary, the budget for 1955. It was re-emphasized in the meeting that all projects to raise money must be approved by the Board. Nancy urged all members to keep an itemized list of expenditures from day to day.

A meeting has been planned for the spring, when outgoing treasurers will help orientate the incoming treasurers.

Benefit To Be Held

The Winston-Salem Club of the Salem College Alumnae Association will sponsor a benefit bridge at 8:00 p.m., Thursday, October 28, in the Day Students' Center.

Proceeds will be used to help establish a scholarship for a day student. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Herbert Vogler, Jr., and Mrs. Paul W. Snyder. A local department store will give a fashion show with models from the Winston Club.

Refreshments will be served from a snack bar and local business concerns will donate door and table prizes. Invitations were mailed early this week.

Salemities are invited to come; tickets may be bought from Peggy Hawkins for $7.75 per person.

Medlin and Sandresky to Give Joint Recital on Monday Night

Charles Medlin, cellist, and Clemens Sandresky, pianist, will present a joint recital at 8:30 p.m., on Monday, Oct. 25, in Memorial Hall. This is the second in a series of Salem faculty recitals.

Mr. Sandresky is Dean of the School of Music. Mr. Medlin is a member of the Salem music faculty and instructs students in piano and violin-cello.

A native of High Point, Mr. Medlin attended the University of North Carolina and the Julliard School of Music. He has been a cellist in the North Carolina and Indianapolis symphonies.

Mr. Sandresky is a graduate of Dartmouth College and has studied at the Longy School of Music, the Julliard School of Music, and Harvard University.

Their program is as follows:
Sonata in G minorEccles
Largo

Allegro con Spirito
Sonata in D major,
Op. 102, No. 2Beethoven
Allegro con brio
Adagio con molto sentimento
d'affetto
Allegro fugato
Soirs Etranger, Op. 65

Louis Vienne
(Four pieces for Violincello and Piano.

I. Grenade
II. Sur le Leman
III. Venise
IV. Steppe Canadien
Requie brosCassado

Home Church To Hold Class

The Home Moravian Church has announced the organization of a mixed Sunday School class for young people of college age. An invitation is extended to interested Salem students who would like to attend.

The class will be conducted as a discussion group with varied topics of interest to students; there will be a rotation of adult leaders.

The class will meet at 9:45 each Sunday morning in the Rondthaler Memorial Building across from Memorial Hall. Students will be dismissed in time to board the buses and attend church uptown.

during the meeting pictures of Salem were shown . . . The Northern New Jersey Club met today . . . The New York Club is planning to have Miss Hixson speak to them while she is in New York next week.

Three representatives from the First Baptist Church met with the Salem Baptist Student Union on Tuesday afternoon in the Friendship Rooms of Strong. Mr. Donald Britt, BSU adviser, presided during the discussion.

Mrs. Joseph Addison Vance, Jr., class of '24, will represent Salem College on November 4 at the inauguration of Charles S. Kramer as president of the General Assemblies Training School in Richmond, Va.

The Board of Trustees scheduled a meeting for today in the office building with Dr. R. Gordon Spagh presiding. The Capital Funds Program, headed by Dr. Gramley, was on the agenda. The board members were to dine in the Club Dining Room at 6:00 p.m. with members of the administrative staffs of the Academy and College. The board meets twice a year—in October and April.

On Wednesday, Dr. Gramley spoke at the Academy in connection with the United Funds campaign. His talk concerned the tribulations of the student body to charitable organizations.

The faculty met at 7:30 p.m., Thursday in the Friendship Rooms of Strong for another of their self-study programs.