

Choral Ensemble To Give Series Of New Numbers

The Salem College Choral Ensemble has a most varied and challenging repertoire of music to be performed during the first semester. The music is selected to fit each particular occasion and any assisting choral group. More than thirty different selections ranging from early church music to modern show tunes and from three part women's choruses to eight part mixed choral arrangements are included in the works to be learned.

On Sunday evening, October 22, the 52 college singers will present a joint concert with the Moramus Choir in the Fellowship Hall at the Home Moravian Church at 7:30 p.m. The Moramus Choir consists of 32 select singers from the various Moravian churches in the city. This particular program will be quite unique since it will be the first "music in the round" concert ever presented in Winston-Salem. Hymns, anthems, solos, a brass ensemble, and several other features are included on the program.

On November 6 the North Carolina State University Men's Glee Club will present a joint concert in James Auditorium with the Choral Ensemble. Tickets will be sold in advance by the girls and at the door. Proceeds will be used for the Ensemble's trip to Buccaramanga, Colombia, South America, next January. A repeat concert will be given at the North Carolina State campus on Wednesday, November 8.

Following these concerts, rehearsals will begin immediately with an entirely new repertoire of music for the Christmas assembly program for December 15. Part of the rehearsal time will be devoted to the learning of music to be performed with the University of Buccaramanga Men's Glee Club which has won top honors in South American choral competition. Six concerts have been scheduled for the combined choral groups during the Choral Ensemble's five day visit to Winston-Salem's sister city.

In the meantime the Home Moravian Church welcomes the Salem College faculty and students to an evening of music Sunday, October 22, at 7:30 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall.

Seminar Sets Study Abroad

The Scandinavian Seminar is now accepting applications for its study abroad program in Denmark, Finland, Norway or Sweden for the academic year 1968-69. This unique living-and-learning experience will particularly appeal to college students, graduates and other adults who want to become part of another culture while acquiring a second language. The focus of the Seminar's program is the student's Independent Study Project in his field of interest.

The student in the Seminar program stays two to eight weeks with a family in the Scandinavian country of his choice, using the language daily and sharing in the activities of the community. For the major part of the year he lives and studies among Scandinavians at a Folk High School - a residential school for young adults. He is completely separated from his fellow American students throughout the Seminar year except during the periods of intensive language instruction and during the three general courses conducted under the supervision of the Seminar's American director, Dr. Adolph G. Anderson, Dean of New College of Hofstra University.

Over one-hundred American colleges and universities have given either partial or full credit for the Seminar year.

NCATE Accredits Salem Council Praises School

Salem College has been notified that it has been accredited for ten years by the National Council for Accreditation for Teacher Education. The notification came from Dr. Rolf Larson, Executive Director of NCATE, whose office is located in Washington, D.C.

This accreditation provides Salem graduates in Teacher Education the opportunity to teach in states that accept graduates of NCATE schools without having to take certain required courses or meet specific standards.

The letter from Dr. Larson praised Salem for the excellence of its program, the quality of its students, and the cooperation of its entire faculty in the program of teacher

Hakoshima Appears Here In Exceptional Program

By Sandy Kelley

A performance of studied control and perception characterized the presentation of Yass Hakoshima, Mime, in assembly, Monday, October 16.

Using no scenery and only minimum costumes, lights, and music, Mr. Hakoshima revealed his talent through controlled body movement and facial expressions. He first portrayed a fisherman trying vainly to catch fish. His humorous portrayal of emotion and all too human actions brought laughter from the audience. In contrast to the portrayal of the fisherman, Mr. Hakoshima gave a more serious performance of Illusion using lighting to aid in the effect of the number.

His presentation of Dream showed the youth wish of an old man fulfilled through a dream after having drunk from an imaginary bottle.

The hectic pace of Labyrinth revealed quick movements and tensing emotion which seemed to grip even the audience while gracefulness was one of the most noticeable characteristics of Mr. Hakoshima's interpretation of an Eagle flying and being shot down.

The final portrayal of Ecdysis from that which inhibits his mind revealed the gradual freeing of man and life. This was seen in the mask which Mr. Hakoshima wore with a shapeless face on one side while shedding the confining exoskeleton to the face of a man on the other side which he revealed to the audience when he had finished the laborious process.

Thunderous applause and three curtain calls followed the performance in spite of the late start of the assembly due to lighting difficulties.

Mr. Hakoshima was scheduled to appear at other area colleges and appeared at Salem as part of the Salem College Lecture Series under the auspices of the Arts Program of the Association of American Colleges.

CEEB To Meet Salem Attends

Miss Edith Kirkland, Director of Admissions, will be attending the annual meeting of the College Entrance Examination Board in Chicago, Illinois, October 24-25. On October 23, she will participate in a meeting of the Association of the Women's Independent Colleges, also in Chicago. October 26, she will take part in a conference in St. Louis, Missouri, which has been arranged by Mary Institute, in St. Louis, Missouri, to introduce the Directors of Admissions of eight Southern Women's Colleges to high School counselors, students, and their parents in the St. Louis area. These colleges are Salem, Agnes Scott, Hollins, Randolph-Macon, Sweet Briar, Queens, Converse, and Mary Baldwin.

changes, students have enough intellectual maturity and open mindedness to know that many old Southern attitudes, as (1) all Negroes are to be shunned as inferior and (2) all Whites are superior, are being overthrown. The fact that Negroes and Whites are groups of individual humans is growing in acceptance in the college environment where Negroes and Whites are being exposed to the other's culture. It is here at the college level that Negroes and Whites have a common interest and goal. Therefore it should not be difficult to establish rapport with a member of another race.

Thus the attention given to whether or not a rooming house is integrated should be diverted, and more attention should be given to cleanliness and comfort of the rooming house.

NEW — FIND SCHOLARSHIPS BY COMPUTER

Last year $30 million in college scholarships went unclaimed — because no qualified persons applied . . . because no qualified persons knew of them. • Now ECS engineers and educators have programmed a high-speed computer with 700,000 items of scholastic aid, worth over $500 million, to permit students to easily and quickly locate scholarships for which they qualify. • The student fills out a detailed, confidential questionnaire and returns it to ECS, with a one-time computer-processing fee of $15. In seconds the computer compares his qualifications against requirements of grants set up by foundations, business, civic, fraternal, religious, and government organizations, and prints a personalized report to the student telling him where and when to apply for grants for which he qualifies. Thousands of these do not depend on scholastic standing or financial need.
