gon Government?
 (8) The Chaplain asked us if we were not on the side of freedom and self-determination for South Vietnam. Yet we first became involved in the Vietnamese war in 1949 on the side of the French who were endeavoring to reestablish their colonial control over Indochina. Were we for self-determination then, or were we simply against communism; how has the situation changed?
 If I have misrepresented the Chaplain, I trust you will take the trouble to correct me. Would it be helpful to have an inter-disciplinary seminar on Vietnam next semester, non-credit, at the students' insistence?

The Pierrette crew and cast go into the final week of preparations for Hedda Gabler.

Technical work for the Pierrettes' fall production, Hedda Gabler by Henrik Ibsen, is nearing completion in the Dramatics Workshop. Over fifty people, a greater number than ever before, have been working on the sets, costumes, makeup, and publicity for the play. New techniques, mainly with character makeup and set construction, are being introduced to improve the technical aspects of the theatre.

The set for Hedda Gabler, which takes place in Norway at the turn of the century, consists of corduroy walls with crewel designs in felt, and "wood" paneling made of contact paper. These new set materials provide a more realistic set than the muslin formerly used in set construction. As Lee Torrence, set designer for Hedda Gabler says, "Also, the heavy appearance of the set supports the leading character Hedda, who is an unfeminine woman with expensive taste." The intricate crewel design which decorates the corduroy is a popular design in Norway because the warm colors of gold, orange, red, and turquoise, offset the cold Norwegian weather. Lee has been able to use much imagination in her set design although she recalls basic ideas from her trip to Oslo two summers ago.

Likewise, costumes for Hedda Gabler have been designed to offset cold, dreary Norway. Colors range from lavender to vivid black and white stripe for the costumes of the four female characters in the play. Carilee Martin, costume designer, based her designs on the trends of the Norwegian social class at the turn of the century.

Silk-screening and stenciling are methods being used for posters which will be placed at Salem and throughout Winston-Salem.

Student tickets may be picked up in the box office at the Drama Workshop Friday, November 3 from 12 noon to 2 p.m. Performances will be held November 8-11 at 8 p.m. in the Drama Workshop.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The State Home Economics Convention will be held November 3-4, at the Grove Park Inn in Asheville; both college students and professionals will attend. Representing Salem College will be Mrs. Margaret Snow, Doree Koontz, Beth Carothers, Jannet Bowers, and Brandy Aiken, who is running for State Treasurer of the college chapters.

The North Carolina Council of Church Related Colleges met in Greensboro, November 2 and 3. Attending from Salem were the President, Academic Dean, Dean of Students, Assistant to the President, Registrar, and others.

The Home Economics Club is considering the possibility of offering a birthday cake service to the student body. The cakes would sell for less than those of the local bakeries, and they would be available on campus. The decision as to undertaking this project will depend upon the student response. Please help by answering the following questions as objectively as possible:

Name _____
 When is your birthday _____
 If the club offered cakes, would you like:

..... Home Made
 Mixes (more variety available)

What would be your choice of a type or flavor of cake?

Please check in order of preference:
Chocolate

.....WhiteYellow
Others (please state)
 Which would you prefer?

.....Layer Cakes
Sheet Cakes

If the club offered cakes, would you be likely to buy any?.....

If so, how many would you probable buy in the course of this school year?

If you had a cake mix, would you be interested in paying the club a small fee to make the cake for you?

Would you be interested in buying a cake for other purposes or occasions?

If so, how many such would you be likely to buy this year?

Please return this to your mail box by Tuesday.
 Thank you for your cooperation.
