

Never say
There's nothing to do.....

It's Christmastime again. Many of us go through four years at Salem and never take advantage of the activities sponsored in Winston-Salem. There are several activities which everyone should try to attend. First of all is The Moravian Candle Tea. It is held in the Brother's House and lines are usually long. The best time to plan to go is around dinner time. Another Old Salem event is Salem Christmas on Tuesday, December 11. This is a special trip through Old Salem in 18th century style. Tickets for both events may be obtained at the Visitor's Center.

For those of you who signed up to go with April Arts to the Nutcracker Ballet, we have tickets. Arie Tubb will be distributing them on Thursday, December 6. If you need transportation get in touch with Arie at 725-2231. The performance is Friday night at 8 p.m. in Reynolds Auditorium. For those of you who did not get tickets you should go to the Hanes Community Center at the corner of Cherry and Coliseum and pick them up. Cost is $5.50 and there is usually a sell-out, so you need to go this week.

The Salem College Christmas Assembly is Thursday, Dec. 6 at 1:15 p.m. The chorus will sing special Christmas music. The end of the Assembly is by candlelight and the entire audience joins in singing Christmas carols. This is a very meaningful assembly and everyone is urged to attend.

The April Arts Festival is coming up April 12th. This year we are encouraging students to display and sell their art work on Saturday in the Square. So be thinking about preparing any sort of art you would like to. This is open to anyone. More details will be available at a later date.

crossing state lines to incite a riot and were sentenced to five years in jail. This event aroused college students across the country and when the verdicts were passed, riots broke out on many campuses.

Rubin, summarizing the 60's and 70's and making projections for the 80's said, "The 60's was a male decade. The 70's was the decade of women," "... the 60's was a big exhale and the 70's was a big inhale."

"The apathy of the 70's will become the awakening of the 80's" said Rubin. "In the 80's I see a coming together of the best of the 60's and the best of the 70's - the solidarity of the 60's and the feeling that you can do something combined with the openness and sensitivity of the 70's."

"In the 1980's," said Rubin, "the economy is going to fall apart." To cope with this Rubin explains that we will have to create a new value system so that every human in the country will be guaranteed a job, a home and health."

"Activism," said Rubin, "saved the country and ended the war." He projects that the 80's will be activist but in a different way than the 60's was. This activism will be based on love and health.

Rubin's finish was met with a standing ovation. Obviously he is still stirring the students - he is as effective as he was in the 60's. Though today he can only be accused of inciting standing ovations instead of riots.

As we brace ourselves for the onslaught of holiday shopping, parties and the annual ritual of over-indulgence, the faces of starving Cambodians stare vacantly at us from the pages of daily newspapers.

In what has been termed the Auschwitz of Asia, the condemned people of Cambodia march slowly but certainly down the path to extinction. More than a third of the population of this tranquil land has already perished from the effects of war, repression and disease. As many as two million more are on the verge of death by starvation.

In witnessing a tragedy of this magnitude, the individual often stands by helpless, unsure of what to do, unable to believe that he or she can really make a difference. And meanwhile, the dying continues.

The fact is, of course, we can make a difference. Any contribution, no matter how small, means something to those who have nothing. The price of dinner and a movie could mean the difference between life and death for a Cambodian child. The proceeds from a fund-raising event by a club or dorm could supply desperately needed medical supplies to a refugee camp.

Save the Children in collaborating with the worldwide Save the Children Alliance in providing medical teams, supplementary therapeutic feeding and pediatric medicines on the Thai side of the Cambodian border. Administering the program is the Save the Children Fund of Britain which has been operating extensively in the area since 1976. There are now six medical teams working in the border camps which house approximately 90,000 refugees.

In addition, Save the Children Alliance has provided a fork lift truck to help unload relief materials in Phnom Penh. This was flown on the first air relief flight to that city. At the port of Kapong Som, another fork life vehicle has been provided by Save the Children along with pediatric drugs for both the Kampong Som and Phnom Penh areas.

One thousand tons of rice, oil, sugar and milk have also been dispatched by sea to Kampong Som and ten tons of high protein Norwegian fish meal is being air freighted to the International Committee of the Red Cross for emergency feeding either in Cambodia or Thailand.

The Cambodian relief program is one of two Save the Children Alliance refugee projects in Indochina. In Indonesia, Save the Children (U.S.) is administering an Alliance program which provides food, medicines and English language training for Vietnamese boat people awaiting resettlement.

Save the Children can now provide these desperate people with food, medicine and health care. But they need our help. Mail your contribution to Save the Children, Cambodian Relief Fund, Dept. P, Westport, CT 06880 or call toll free 800-243-5075.

This year, celebrate the holiday season with the best gift of all--a gift of life.
