One Act play--"His One Economy"

Members of the "Dramatic Club" Misses Irene Renfro, Hilda Brantley, and Wilhelmenia Smith gave the play. The play was delightfully presented.

A short talk inspiring action was made by the President.

After a short report from the grounds committee and discussion, Feb. 28th, was set aside as "Tree Planting Day" for Bailey High School. Mr. Grant reported that 66 books had been placed in the library since Christmas. The P.T.A. voted to pay the bill of $52.25.

The beautiful cake made by Mrs. Haskin went to Miss Nora Mae Barnes's room. Mrs. Robert Jones offered the next cake. Let us hope that the cakes will sometime get to High School. I don't doubt that most any Freshman or Senior would like to get a slice.

JUNIORS PRESENT BALL GAME

In order to give the seniors a banquet, the Juniors sponsored a double-header ball game Wednesday night Feb. 7, 1934. The game between the school faculty and the town girls was loosely played. The score was 27-10 in favor of the town girls. The boys high school boys played the town boys and it was a very exciting game. The school team was defeated with a score of 15-13. Candy and peanuts were sold during the game.

The Juniors wish to thank the Faculty and the town for their cooperation.

WHAT JAPAN'S CLOSED DOORS TAUGHT HER.

Earle in the seventeenth century there came a ruler to the throne of Japan. This ruler decided that it was dangerous for the Japanese to have any dealings with foreigners. He forbade any Japanese to leave their country. Japan shut itself in, and shut foreigners out. The Japanese could not make use of the advantages for commerce which the surrounding sea afforded. Many men had become skillful seamen but they could not engage in foreign trade. For about two centuries the country remained shut up. During this long period the Japanese lived on the products of their own lands and waters. As long as the doors of the country were kept closed the Japanese had to find ways in which to make their small amount of farm land supply them with much food.
