

NEWSPAPER STAFF

Editor-in-chief---Travis Jernigan
Assistant Editors---Josephine Lam
Norman Patterson
Reporters -----Eunice Peele
Leron Ray
Sidney Jones
Business Manager--- Elmo Bisette
Assistant Business Manager-----
Wilbur Bisette
Artist ----- Frances Manning
Production Manager---Ester Finch
Assistant Production Manager-----
Marjorie Brown

EDITORIALS

OUR VACATION DAYS

School is almost over and we will soon be on our vacation. Most of us are now overflowing with joy because we will be able to throw off the burden of sitting up every night preparing the next day's lessons. We have made many accomplishments during the past school year. What will we do through these vacation days? Will we drop our education entirely as soon as the school doors are closed? To continue our education would be no burden at all. In the first place most of us have some spare time. This could be well spent reading some worthwhile literature as magazines, newspapers, and books, which are free in our community library. This activity will help us understand other people, gain important facts and gain new ideas.

3

Then there is the radio. Of course the majority of us listen to the radio; but, if we wish to gain anything from it, we must carefully choose our programs. If we try, we can very easily get a wholesome variety.

Many of us will have the opportunity to travel this summer. By traveling we can make great headway toward a real education. But we do not have to take a long trip to profit from our eyes. Just look around and stop to think. From careful observation one uncovers strange and interesting facts that he never saw or thought of before.

At last, all of us meet and converse with other people. Even, though we don't realize it, this is one of the greatest means of education. We are steadily exchanging ideas with our associates.

Choosing A Career

One of the greatest decisions of our life is choosing a career. Do we realize that our happiness through out life depends to a great extent upon our choice?

How can we decide that kind of work we should go into, for there are so many fields open for each of us? The important thing is to choose the right one. To do this, there are only three things we must do.

First, know our interests, likes and dislikes. We must analyze ourselves, figure out what we enjoy doing most of all, question ourselves, and from our answers choose at least three things that really interests us.

Second, decide what our abilities are. Here again we must ask ourselves more questions, and answer them as honestly as we possibly can.

Third, consider our weaknesses, both mental and physical. While doing this, let us note carefully our ability to make and keep friends.

Continued on Page 4