

FOURTH GRADE — HOLLAND

WINDMILLS

Holland is often called the land of windmills. The windmills are used to grind grain into flour and meal. They pump the water from the fields into the canals. Sometimes the people live in the windmills. Windmills are kept very clean. They are often painted pretty bright colors.

Poggy Lou Pace

THE FARMS

The crops raised on the farms are tulips, hyacinths, potatoes, grass, sugar beets, hay, grain, and vegetables. The farmers work in the fields and care for the cattle, geese, and ducks. There are windmills on almost every farm.

Elizabeth Glover

DIKES

Holland is below sea level; therefore, great dikes of clay, mud, and stone have been built to keep the sea back. Dikes are also used for roads. Since the water usually rises in spring and autumn, the dikes have to be carefully watched at these seasons. Engineers usually stay in the dike towns to guard the dikos.

Octavia Beard

JUMBLE SQUARES

By Thomas Sanders

Arrange the letters in squares to spell words about Holland.

|   |   |   |   |   |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| R | I | H | E | N |
| O | R | K | T | S |
| I | D | S | K | E |
| A | C | A | N | L |
| D | S | E | N | U |

|   |   |   |   |   |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| U | B | S | L | B |
| R | A | B | E | G |
| G | A | H | E | U |
| P | U | I | T | L |
| T | L | A | E | D |