KOOFAHS

Koofahs are round basket like boats. They are very large. The koofahs are made from asphalt and willow reeds. The asphalt comes from springs found near the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers. Some koofahs are large enough to carry several horses and men.

BUTTERFLIES

We are studying butterflies in our room. We noticed them outside our window and decided we would catch all we could and make a study of them. We have framed some of different sizes and colors, and have drawn some free hand ones also.

We have found that there are many different kinds of butterflies. Those most commonly found around here are the Black Swallowtail, Tiger Swallowtail, Viceroy, and Spangled Fritillary.

We have learned the different stages in the life of a butterfly. We have also found out the main differences between butterflies and moths. Our room is enjoying this study, and we are sure you would too.
