

KENNETH GAY AWARDED LIFE-SAVING MEDAL

Bailey High School auditorium rang with applause Wednesday, October 22, as Jack Farmer presented Kenneth Gay with a medal for his bravery in saving the life of a fellow companion, Bruce Bunn.

Kenneth Gay, a fifth grade pupil and also a victim of paralysis, rescued the Bunn boy as he was drowning last summer in Farmer's Pond. Unassisted he succeeded in holding the boy out of the water until help arrived.

Presentation of the award was made by the Y.M.A.A. of Bailey of which Jack Farmer is the president.

School Store Provides For Rural Students

Pencils, notebook paper, notebooks, ink pads, and other articles necessary for school work are available at the school store located in the supply room.

As no country children are permitted to go up town from school, the store was established principally for their convenience, not as a profit-making scheme. What little money is made from the store goes to help pay the debts of the school.

JOURNALISM STUDENTS TO RECEIVE CREDIT FOR WORK

For striving to make a bigger and better high school paper the students of the journalism class will be given journalism pins by the school. This award is expected to stimulate more interest in journalism.

To merit this honor the members must meet the requirements drawn up by the faculty. By Christmas the first pins are expected to be presented to those who have met the required goal.

WASHINGTON, HERE THEY COME!

From the proceeds of the Halloween carnival held in Bailey on Friday, October 31, the seniors' hopes of a Washington trip soared upward. Over 140 people paid a nickel to enter the carnival. From the admission, bingo, fortune telling, crazy house, cake walk, apple bobbing, fishing, and the sale of drinks and candy a total of $20.70 was received. Including the dimes donated each week and the corn and other farm products to be sold, the class already has well over $25.00.

Typewriters for the commercial department this year cost $574; tables, $150.

Faculty Play Nets Highest In Years

OH! SUSAN!, a four act comedy-drama, was presented October 28 in the Bailey High School auditorium by members of the faculty.

Differing from the usual procedure, two performances, matinee and evening, were given.

Judging from enthusiastic remarks of the audience, Mr. G. G. Morgan gave an excellent performance as the young bachelor ensnared by Miss Quinn, a designing young socialite. Mr. Herbert Liles, a friend of the school, also received favorable comment for his portrayal of the "Old Soak".

An enthusiastic audience agreed that each character was well suited for his part.

Proceeds from the play netted $52.25. HILDRED RUFFIN

Miss Rhodes, a member of the cast, had a throat ailment a few days before the play was to be presented. Hildred Ruffin, a tenth grade student selected to "fill in", learned the lines immediately, but Miss Rhodes recovered in time to be in the play.
