

SOMEONE MUST CHANGE

At a recent F. F. A. meeting a short talk centering around the topic "Someone Must Change" was given by Jack Farmer. Among his remarks Jack stated, "The boys and girls have been told that there is too much familiarity among them". He further stated that the Future Farmers could be the first to take a step toward a solution of this problem by co-operating with the faculty and setting an example for the other students. In closing Jack declared, "This is only one of the many ways to show our appreciation for what is being done for us by our teachers."

I want to offer my sincerest congratulations to you and your co-workers upon such a fine paper. It indeed makes a contribution to the full student body as well as being a valuable instrument of public relations.

Fred Greene, N.C.E.A. Secretary.

Seniors Have Class Party

Seniors once more had a good time when they attended a class party sponsored by Jack Farmer on January 14 at his home. About fifteen seniors were at the party plus five guests from the Junior class.

Stella Eatmon took the role of hostess by leading the party in games of all kinds.

A dime was paid by each person attending to help defray the expense of refreshments.
