VACATION DAYS NEED NOT BE WILL-O'-THE WIST DREAMS

Dreams of vacation time are soon to be realized. To most students these dreams visualize a period of relief from study and mental "agonizing". Yet having a four months vacation doesn't mean there should be four months wasted. Even though there seems plenty to do in the home, there are always idle moments which should be made use of.

Doing paralled reading during vacation saves much time during busy winter months. This year, more than ever before, every minute should be made to count. Patriotism demands activity. It's just as easy to start a worth while hobby as to day-dream about it. An interesting hobby will keep a pupil's mind alert and keep him entertained.

Everyone must look ahead and be prepared for any defense call that comes his way. School studies, it is true, will be laid aside, but other lessons will be substituted if all are responsive to the challenging times.

SCHOOL IDEALS BECOME BASES FOR LIFE

April 22 will be an important milestone in the lives of the seniors, for after then many of them will be "on their own". Some of them will continue their schooling in college; some will join the armed forces of Uncle Sam; some will get jobs; and some will stay at home or marry. But whatever they decide to do, the training and ideals, they received in school will, if used correctly, help them to make a success of life. Good sportsmanship and fair play will be of just as much use in the game of life as in games at school. Perseverance and co-operation will play a vital part in success. In these times of world up-heavel, more than ever before, one must have faith in God and man.

JR-SR. BANQUET HIGHLIGHTS HIGH SCHOOL MEMORIES

Perhaps next to graduation the Junior-Senior banquet is the most anticipated of all high school events. This year, after our nation's entrance into the war, the fate of the banquet was for a time very uncertain. Even though both classes realized the need for sacrifices, it was finally agreed, much to the delight of the seniors, that, war or no war, life must have its hours of joyful freedom. So the banquet was hold.

The seniors wish to express their appreciation to the juniors for the time and effort they spent on the banquet. The pleasure derived from this occasion will long be remembered as a bright spot in their high school career.
