

Bugle Improves Each Year

PHYLIS

Coming across the first copies of the Bugle published in '39 set me to making comparisons with our present issues. I was quite interested to note the differences I found.

Margins uneven, words misspelled, letters written on top of one another--that's the way our first Bugle looked.

The Bugle has increased in size from twelve pages to a volume of twenty to twenty-five pages.

By skillful arrangement of news articles, ads, and features the make-up is made more interesting and the paper as a whole looks neater and more attractive.

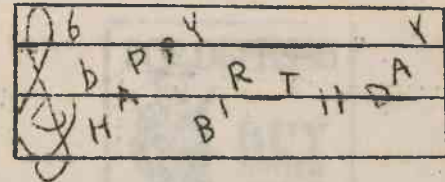

The style of writing reveals an improvement in the general technique of news editing. The subjects reported are, likewise, of more general interest.

The success and improvement of the paper indicates hard work and co-operation on the part of the staff each year. They are to be congratulated.

GRADES TO STAGE PROGRAMS IN SUCCESSION

Changes in the chapel period now permit the grammar grades to join the high school every Wednesday in the auditorium for programs staged by the different rooms in succession.

Presenting programs so far are the seniors with a song program of home talent; the juniors, an inspirational hour with a pop talk by Mr. Carl H. Walkor; the sophomore girls, a negro wedding entitled Lula's Wedding; and the sophomore boys, a military secret skit.
