

LEGISLATURE DISCUSSES BILLS AFFECTING SCHOOLS

Aeronautics Open To Upper Classmen

Pre-flight aeronautics, now being taught in the high school by principal Carl H. Walker, is taking the place of economics, formerly taught in the last semester.

"This aeronautics class is to instruct students in elements of pre-flight and general aeronautical information", states Mr. Walker.

The course is open to any tenth or eleventh grade student.

Boys Subject To Draft

Bailey High School boys who registered under the eighteen and nineteen year draft law are now awaiting call to active duty.

Those having registered are Louis Bissette, Herman Anderson, Fitzhugh Saunders, Charles Morgan, Samuel Glover, Harold Cooper, Millard Lamm, Clyde Finch, and John D. Glover. Some are already receiving their questionnaires.

NINE-MONTHS TERM FOREMOST BILL IN CONSIDERATION AT PRESENT

Three bills of interest to all North Carolina schools and designed to place North Carolina's educational system on a par with that of the best of other states are being introduced in the state legislature.

Foremost among these is a bill recommending and providing for a nine-months state school term for all school children.

BAILEY ALUMNUS BAGS NAZI WARPLANE

(Taken from Raleigh Times)

Technical Sergeant Bernice Farmer of Bailey, N. C., waist gunner in a bomber piloted by Capt. Sydney Smith of Santa Barbara, California, was credited with destroying one of the Focke-Wulfs while attacking the Nazi u-boat pens at Lorient. It was seen to dive into the sea.

Quinton Haskins Finds Bugle Interesting

That former students now serving in the army enjoy the Bailey Bugle is seen by a letter recently received from Quinton Haskin, stationed in Guadalcanal.

He writes to his brother Hollis, "I must say you kids are really doing marvelous work with that paper. There were some very interesting and well-written articles in that issue. I noticed you and Martin have been covering the territory with your ads; keep it up and maybe you can keep the paper's finances balanced."

COMPULSORY LAW

An extended compulsory attendance law is another bill under consideration. This bill requires compulsory attendance of every child between the ages of 7 to 15 inclusive.

To give the new law strength not found in the present compulsory requirements the bill provides a set-up by which this law will be enforced.

PAY INCREASE

The next bill advocates a fifteen percent increase in the pay of all persons connected with the school organization—teachers, bus drivers, janitors, and county superintendents.
