THE STORY OF AN EXCITED BRIDEGROOM TOLD WITH NAMES OF STUDENTS

The groom, dressed in his new grey (Mary Wiggs) suit, looked anxiously at his 17-jewel (Bissette) watch. He was tired of waiting in the stone (Pete) temple (Aileen). Would the gay (Boykin) bride-to-be never come? To past the time away, he plucked the petals of a daisy (Liles). While glancing at the little pearl (Horton) ring he was going to give her, he thought of the honeymoon they would take in Mae (Parish) to Florence, (Joyner) Italy. Of course it would be a high (Margie)-priced trip, but he didn't care.

Ah! there she was with a lovely pansy (Bissette) in her brown (Margaret) hair. He ran at a fast pace (Jaxie Royce) to meet her.

CLASS STUDIES PLASTIC FIGURE

While studying the digestive and respiratory system of the human body, the ninth grade biology class learns more by having before them for demonstration a plastic figure belonging to the county and sent to the school for study by science classes.

This figure stands on the teacher's desk in view of all students. Since it can be taken apart quickly and easily, the pupils get a good idea of the placement of the different organs of the body.

Miss Lackey, teacher of science, finds this method of teaching much more effective than any other tried method.

Any Ice Cream Today?

"There's the ice cream truck!" shouts a hungry student. He then makes a dash for the lunch room, buys a ticket, and now he's at the counter asking for a 'pop-cycle or a cup of cream.

Ice cream isn't as plentiful this year as it has been in recent years. So the "white truck", with its supply of "this favorite food" is more welcomed than ever.
