

SCHOOL DESIGNS SCRAPBOOK FOR NATIONAL CONTEST

Mrs. Murray Leaves For New Duties With Johnson's Grocery

Medals Await Best Students

Awards for the best all round boy and girl will again be given at the end of this semester. Mr. Walker states that if watches aren't available this year, something of equal value will be given.

As in former years, other medals will be awarded to outstanding students in the journalism, home economic, and agriculture departments, as well as one for scholarship and citizenship.

Students Collect Tin Cans

Collecting tin cans is a rare hobby in the school at the present time.

Washed and pressed out, about 125 pounds of cans have been brought in to date. These cans taken to Nashville by Samuel Glover, when he carried his bus there for repairs, were dumped on the collection pile.

Mr. C. H. Walker, principal, is urging the students to keep bringing in these cans and any other scrap metal vital to the war production.

Our capable lunch room manager, Mrs. Percy Murray, has after two years of faithful service left us. Under her supervision, our lunch-room has improved from a small room that served only sandwiches and soup occasionally to a large, clean, well-supervised unit that serves from 200 to 250 hot lunches daily.

Mrs. Murray is now working at D. L. Johnson's grocery. We all wish her luck in her new capacity.

Miss Hattie Ferrell, formerly our Librarian is now taking her place. S. L. Perry

JOURNALISM CLUB ASSUMES EDITING OF PAPER

In order to evaluate the work of the students on the paper and to discover who has the most initiative and is most capable of assuming responsibility, the journalism club is editing the paper for the next two months with as little help as possible. Although the advisers will still correct and criticize, the staff will direct the complete publishing of the paper.

BOOK ENTITLED "SCHOOLS AT WAR"

Scrapbooks, entitled "Schools At War", and sent to high schools throughout the nation by the U. S. Office of Education and its war-time commission, Washington, D. C., are to be filled out with articles and pictures portraying the efforts made toward promoting war thinking and activities.

ARTICLES FROM BUGLE

Articles from the Bailey Bugle dealing with bond sales, scrap campaigns, the victory corps, and other war activities of the school provides material for the scrapbook being made at Bailey High School. It also includes drawings, headlines, and any other creative work of the school pertaining to the war effort.

Students working on this scrapbook are Maude Lewis, Bobbie Morgan, and Josephine Griffin.

JUDGED WITH OTHERS

North Carolina scrapbooks will be sent to the county superintendent and will be forwarded to Raleigh and finally to Washington to be judged against others from all over the nation.
