Community Cannery To Be Completed

In response to the demand for food conservation, the local community cannery, built in cooperation with the county, state, and federal authorities, is nearing completion.

COMMUNITY HELPS

The boiler fixtures, cookers, vats, kettles, grinders, and sealers were secured by the federal government, while the county furnished the building. Through the cooperation of the people and the food conservation program sponsored by the Bailey agricultural department last spring, the project was made possible

EQUIPMENT NEEDED

To make this a complete unit equipped for canning, the Bailey community will need to furnish knives, pans, tubs and strainers. This will call for an expenditure of about one hundred dollars.

It is hoped that this equipment will be ready by the time the cannery is completed.

Final details for the operation are in the making. The cannery is to be used by the people under the supervision of a person trained to operate it. A small fee for the operation will be the only cost.

COURSES OFFERED

In order that several people may become familiar with the operation of the cannery, minimum courses during the fall and winter will be offered, including only twelve or thirteen individuals at one time.

REQUIREMENTS

Anyone interested in this training before canning season may see Mr. L. Tapp and make reservation for the group. Efforts will be made to enroll all desiring the course.

Future Farmer Exhibit

Bailey Future Farmers will exhibit at Rocky Mount fair, September 27, 1943.

Mr. Tapp and a committee of three will put on the exhibit.

Bailey Scores High In Competitive Test

The chapters were scored on the basis of accomplishments in supervised practices, cooperative activities, home and community service, leadership, earnings, and savings, conduct of meetings, scholarship, recreation, and publicity.

In recognition of the work done the State F. F. A. presented the chapter a bronze plaque.

STUDENTS AWARDED

For their outstanding work Martin Liles and E. C. Griffin were awarded Carolina farmer pins during the state convention, July 6-7.

Goal Set

For war bonds $1500 is the Goal set by the Future Farmers this year. $475.00 worth has already been purchased.
