CLASSMISSES JIMMIE

The Sixth Grade is missing Jimmie Jones this year, but we are glad to hear from him and to know he is on the road to recovery.

He is in the Woodard-Herring Hospital in Wilson suffering from a bone infection. The local doctors administered the sulpha drugs to which he did not respond. Then Jimmie became known state-wide when the doctors made an appeal for the new drug, penicilin. Jimmie became the first person in eastern Carolina to use the drug. As a result he is now recovering.

Seventh Grade Sponsors Bond Contest

The seventh grade is divided into two groups. The boys have joined the Junior Air Corp and the girls have joined the Spars. We are competing to see which group can buy more bonds and stamps. The Junior Air Corp is ahead now. Our quota is $100. The winning Corp will be served.

Students Bring Food

The seventh grade has entered the food-for-lunchroom contest. The room bringing the most food will be given a party by the lunch room workers.

Three New Teachers In Grammar Grades

At a time when there is a shortage of teachers throughout the state and nation, Bailey High School is fortunate to have her ranks filled. We are glad to welcome Miss Pearl Lamm of Wilson County as our fifth grade teacher. She is a graduate of E.C.T.C. and has taught for the past three years in Currituck. Mrs. T.C. May and Mrs. Roland Glover, former teachers in our community, heard the call of duty and have returned to the school room. Mrs. May is again teaching the seventh grade; Mrs. Glover has a combination grade of third and fifth, as these grades were unusually large this year.

The Past Lives Again

No, it is not story hour in the sixth grade room; we are only having a history lesson.

We know there are five classes in school who would realize that they were born several years too soon if they would take a glance at our new history book, "The Past Lives Again." It is a fairy book when compared with some of the histories used in former days.

As "The Past Lives Again" we hope to learn of "Our Beginning in Europe and America."
