

Practiced Citizenship Emphasized

Undertaking to apply citizenship in reality, the school is stressing this phase of student life in every way possible.

Heretofore, citizenship has been a word on the tongue but not one practiced; now it is coming into its own in Bailey high school.

To put into practice essentials of good citizenship--cooperation, respectfulness, consideration, loyalty to school, and numerous small courtesies--is the aim of Bailey school.

That continuance of this policy will be gratifying is unquestionable, for every right-minded person will appreciate anything done to make him able to live his life at its fullest.

Columbus's Spirit Should Live

Discovering a new continent, Columbus landed on the Bahama Islands October 12, 1492.

Throughout his voyage to the new world, Columbus was the "shining light in darkness". Impatient, seasick, and afraid, his crew repeatedly threatened mutiny. Confronted by these problems again and again, the gallant Columbus gave the encouraging command, "On, Sail On!"

As war touches all phases, shortages are common. Typewriters, scissors, stencils, paper, geometry and playground equipment, and foods are hard for schools to get. At times the student body and faculty are tempted like Columbus's men--to give up.

This is not the way to meet difficulties; instead the test should be met in the spirit of Columbus, "Sail On!"

Lack Of Librarian Requires Cooperation

Cooperation in the use of the library is going to be necessary this year more than ever since there isn't a full time librarian. Working with the teachers by giving proof of correct behavior while in the library and by selecting good books will greatly help.

Considering required reading, not as a duty but as a privilege, will make reading become a pleasure, a looked for opportunity.

The reading of daily papers and periodicals available in the library will increase our knowledge of world affairs and give us lively subjects for discussion and for themes. The "I don't know what to talk about" or "I don't know anything to write" will cease to be common expressions.

UNCONSCIOUSNESS

POINTERS FOR GOOD MANNERS

1. WHISTLING, in halls bespeaks inconsiderateness.
2. CHEWING GUM in public is not good taste.
3. "CUTE REMARKS" are not appreciated by the teachers or students.
