

FIRST THANKSGIVING

On a cold, cold winter day
 We came from Holland to America to stay.
 The Indians helped us to plant our maize;
 So we could celebrate our Thanksgiving day.
 The winter was snowy, freezing, and cold.
 Away to church on Sunday we stole.
 We thanked God for the corn we raised;
 So that we would have plenty always.
 Turkeys were plentiful in this land;
 So we always had gun and big turkey at hand.
 From then on until these days
 We celebrate our Thanksgiving in many ways.

4-H MEMBERS ENJOY PARTY

Laughter and music was heard by everyone near the club house Wednesday night as the 4-H club held its party.

Mrs. Kate Niblock Harvey brought a victrola with her and square dances and the Virginia Reel were enjoyed by all.

Drinks bought by the boys and cakes and sandwiches furnished by the girls were served.

Mr. Kermit Lewis, the Bailey senior local leader, and Mrs. Lewis attended the party.

Fly Becomes Popular Once In Lifetime

The filthy, pestiferous fly becomes the much sought for fly.

After a five minutes' chase, exhausted, the sophomore science girls began ripping off legs, tearing off heads so as to examine them under the microscope.

They find the fly so covered in all kinds of imaginable filth, they agree he has the right to be despised.

Fear More Acute Than Sickness

Homeward bound, fear-stricken and faced with illness, were three girls and a boy Friday night.

Going to a party at Betty Doris's home Jean, Nancy, Ruth, and Scott found was fun; but going home, facing their mothers and expecting to have pneumonia, was a different matter.

As a result of bobbing for apples, the four went home looking like drowned chickens. Only Scott became sick. How sympathetic the girls could be!
