LETTER FROM LAST YEARS BUSINESS MANAGER

Dear Staff,

I received the last copy of the Bailey Bugle, and it really was one of the most interesting ones I have seen yet.

Even though you have almost an entirely new staff, there are improvements in the paper since last year, especially in the ads.

It is really wonderful to receive a paper that I had a part in when I was in high school and to know that the students left behind are trying to make the paper better monthly.

Keep up the good work, staff!

Sincerely yours,

Hollis Haskins

Christine Finch, last year's graduate home from Cullowhee for a few days last week, visited the senior class. As representative of the college she talked to the class about the prospects of entering Cullowhee next year.

MONEY! WHO WANTS SOME?

"Oh my goodness! Where did I get this extra two-hundred?? I can't imagine where it is supposed to be. I can't find any use for it anywhere."

These words are actually heard floating from Mrs. Lassiter's room almost every day, but no one seems to want the money. Wonder Why?

At first the news sounded interesting, but later everyone ignored the remarks. He had learned the true facts: the book-keeping students were studying Practice Sets and the money was only play money. P.F.
