

Sarah Whitley Married And Living In Raleigh

Hines-Finch

ESTHER FINCH, graduate of '41, attended the Raleigh School of Commerce and worked for the State Text-book Commission. She was married on October 5, 1946, to James Hines. The couple plan to make their home with the groom's parents in Turkey, North Carolina.

To the students of Bailey High it would be unnecessary to say that the hall around the lockers is always in a scramble between classes.

The best description of this push and tussle is the one given by Bernease Eatmon, who trying to wedge out of Mrs. Farmer's room, exclaimed, "Sardines hain't got nothing on us!"

Below are paragraphs taken from a letter written to Mrs. A. H. Farmer by the former Sarah Whitley, '44 graduate and member of the journalism staff.

Greetings from the stranger and here's hoping you've not completely forgotten me.

I've made a few changes since leaving BHS, and now it seems that my school life was in another world.

Last December soda-jerking looked like an interesting change from farm life, so I stopped in for a stand at Brantley's Drug Store for a three-month stay. Then the March winds blew me into Southern Bell's employment office.

My hubby is a State College sophomore from Murfreesboro, N. C., and a veteran of nearly two years overseas with the Second Marines.

Now I'm a morning housewife in a two-room apartment and a P. M. telephone operator.

Love,

Sarah Britt

1006 East Jones St.
Raleigh, North Carolina

Teen-Age Boys' Accessories

Younger Brothers' Jacket

Shop with Confidence and Wear with Pride

FROM LEDER BROS.

WILSON,

N.C.

CRADLE ROLL

Mrs. H. R. Hinton, former music teacher of Bailey in 1944-45, announces the birth of a six-pound son, Hugh Roland Hinton III, on October 20, 1946.