Staff Explains Criticism Grades Present Christmas Play At P. T. A.

"Prices for advertising space in the BUGLE are not high compared with the prices asked by other school papers, and the imperfection in our drawings is due to the lack of trained artists," explains Mrs. A. H. Farmer, adviser of the BUGLE, in answer to the criticisms the staff has heard regarding the ads and drawings in the BUGLE.

Because there is no art department in the school, all pictures in the BUGLE are drawn by amateur artists who like to draw but

Scouts Build Hut

Having been donated a lot by Mr. W. R. Parson, the Bailey Scouts, troop twelve, backed by the Lions Club, plan to build a meeting hut.

The hut will be built of logs and located outside of town near where Main Street joins the state highway.

Because of the shortage of labor and material, the date of completion is indefinite.

Scouts are to meet in the men's Sunday School room of the Methodist Church until the hut is completed.

Last night a Christmas program of plays, songs, and poems was given by students from the first and second, sixth, and seventh grades at the PTA meeting.

The sixth grade conducted the first part of the program, giving the devotional, the dramatization of a Christmas story, and six songs; Joy to the World, Little Town of Bethlehem, Christmas Lullaby, Away in a Manger, Three Kings of Orient, and Silent Night.

"Christmas Eve on Back Street" was portrayed and carols were sung by the seventh grade.

Between the two plays the first and second grades sang songs and recited poems.

Directing were Mrs. J. P. Underwood, Mrs. Pearl Van Noppen, and Miss Rachel Bissette, teachers of the grades. Mrs. I. T. Poole helped with the music.

EVELYN POOLE ARTIST FOR COVER PAGE

Evelyn Poole, an eleventh grade student and proof reader of the Bugle, has drawn the front page pictures for the last two issues of the BUGLE.

The November page was a combination of the Baptist and Methodist churches of Bailey. Evelyn used the steeple of the Baptist church and the body of the Methodist Church.

The December issue is a See E. Poole Page 6
