

BUGLE PROMOTES CLEANUP DAY, CLEANOUT MIND

Done Again

Cleanup day, promoted by the BUGLE, is to be on January 15, the day following examinations.

For nine months the school becomes the students' day-time home. To the public the condition of the school and grounds reveals their interest in that home.

Cleaning the building and grounds and adding touches of beauty will, it is hoped, create a pride in the school that will instill in each student a desire to have his school a real representative of the student body.

All pupils will be given the opportunity to participate in the cleaning; many will be assigned responsible duties. The day will be one in which every student can put his best foot forward and become a real school citizen.

However, before this day arrives, there is need for another cleanup--the sweeping of cobwebs from the minds of the students in order that they may pass the first semester examinations.

Susie Babbles

Around the School.....

The ninth grade says Kilroy never dared to go in the math room. He was afraid he'd have to work problems.

Note to Santa.....

Here are a few things you forgot this Christmas. Please don't forget next year:

Ruth Farmer--Give our team the ability to beat Red Oak.

Mr. Weaver--Make some of our loud students "zip" their lips.

Ben Etheridge--Establish a "giggle" period.

New Year's Resolutions....

This year I'm planning not to break a single resolution. Below are listed a few:

I resolve--not to eat spinach (never could stand the stuff anyway)

I resolve--not to stop gazing out the school window at passing planes.

I resolve--not to stop wishing for a loud plaid shirt.

And we saw it.....

Paul Dew says he'd like to get hold of the person who pinned up a picture of an orangutan in the back of the English room and wrote his name over it.

Mrs. Farmer--What is the title of your story, Al?

Al--My Wife's An Angel.

BRIGHT SIDE OF CLOUDS

According to Mark Twain "Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody ever does anything about it."

Certainly the weather here in Bailey since the holidays has been such to cause comment--it couldn't be much worse--but the members of the BUGLE staff aren't trying to do anything about it. Let it continue is their prayer, at least for a few more days.

Bad weather means short schedule so that buses may get the students home before dark; and short schedules have been a life saver for the staff, since that gives long after-school hours to work on the BUGLE and, thereby, meet the deadline.

"Red"

Staff

BAILEY BUGLE
Published Monthly

by
JOURNALISM CLASS

and
COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT
Bailey, North Carolina

Member

C. S. P. A.

Editor-----Beth Bissette