Dear Miss Sanders:

You and your school have been honored by your appointment to the Student Advisory Board of STUDENT LIFE, the secondary-school students' national magazine, a publication of the National Association of Secondary-School Principals of the National Education Association.

The term is for the second half-year beginning February 1, 1947. Your name will appear on page two of each issue during this term, beginning with the February issue.

Please examine the copies of STUDENT LIFE which will be sent you for the term with our compliments. Discuss with your classmates and your teachers how STUDENT LIFE can help your school to report the most meritorious activities of our secondary schools.

Sincerely yours,

Paul E. Elicker, Executive Secy.
Secondary-School Principals

Following is an excerpt from a letter received by Mr. M. W. Weaver from Mr. Paul E. Elicker of STUDENT LIFE:

If, during the year, Betty Doris, or some other student appointed by you, will write up and report an educational activity in your school, we should be pleased to receive such a contribution from you for possible publication in STUDENT LIFE. Glossy prints of action photographs of the activity should accompany the manuscript, together with a short biographical sketch and a photograph of the author.

History Class Summarizes Chapter In Themes

Students of United States history class completed the chapter on "The Expanding West" by writing themes to serve as a test and to carry the most important factors into further detail.

The choice of topics were "Texas Independence", "The War with Mexico", "California", "The Oregon Question", and "The Mormon Settlement of Utah". The most popular subject was the last named one.

These themes were graded from the standpoint of English and their history value. Miss Wilma Johnson declares that their most outstanding defect was underdevelopment.
