

Behind The Scenes

Because of the fact that his father is not well, Douglas Morris has the responsibility of looking after his father's farm work. Douglas also looks after the animals and takes his father from place to place.

Cornell Creech is often found helping his mother around the house, as she is not able to do all the necessary work alone. He assists with the washing and caring for the younger children of the family.

Working on Saturdays in Wilson at the Hub, Gladys Boykin helps her family by earning extra money for her own spending.

Bernease Eatmon makes her room attractive by embroidering scarfs and spreads for dressers and pillows. She also makes covers for chairs and dressing tables.

Jean B. Glover is making a collection of recordings of her own voice in order to note the change made in her singing and to present them as gifts to her friends.

Given the idea of raising capons by Mrs. George Finch, a former home ec. teacher, Beth Bissette has raised and sold capons and deposited the money in the bank. She is using this money to help defray her expenses to the Press Convention in New York.

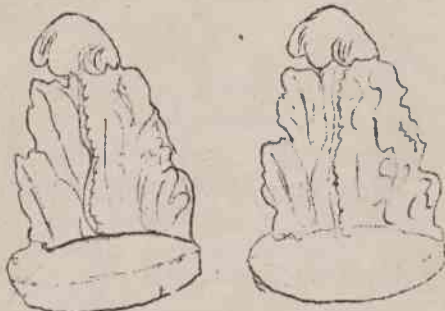

The questionnaires reveal that Billy Murray's favorite-type party is "one where you can eat all you want."

Foreign Girl Expresses Thanks For Boxes

Meyer Marcelle, girl of Luxembourg, has written a letter to the Bailey Red Cross Council expressing her appreciation for the Red Cross boxes sent last fall.

She states that these boxes were received December 6 and the whole school, along with the students' parents and younger brothers and sisters, literally had a "feast with the nice and useful articles" these boxes contained.
