JUNIOR SENIOR BANQUET SLATED FOR APRIL 25 Bugle Wins First Place For Sixth Year

Ranking first in the CSPA contest for mimeographed papers, the BUGLE is one of six papers in the United States to win this honor. For six years the BUGLE has rated first.

The BUGLE has received one gold medal and four certificates with a gold seal embossed on it, for winning first place.

Awards for the different phases of the paper were not announced at the convention, but they will be published in the next issue of THE SCHOOL PRESS REVIEW.

Not until then will the BUGLE know what other honor it has merited, if any.
Bugle Feature Appears In National Magazine

In the first issue of the Bugle, Octavia Beard, a former staff member and writer of "Susie Babbles", wrote a feature entitled "Genius on the Loose." This feature has been published in a recent issue of The National Echo, the school periodical review by and for the high school student.

Published bi-weekly during the school year at State College, Pennsylvania, the magazine features articles that are entirely "echoes" from other school publications.

For every inch of material used the contributing paper is paid 50 cents.

"Hitch your wagon to a star" is the theme of the program to be carried out at the Junior-Senior Banquet to be given at seven o'clock, April 25, in the Cherry Hotel, Wilson.

The program and decoration will center around this theme. Songs, toast, and speeches will follow this same pattern.

Library To Add Books

One hundred library books have been ordered by Miss Wilma Johnson, librarian. A second order will be placed soon.

The present order was made possible by a balance from the high school rental fee.

The later order will come from a state contribution of $5 per teacher and a $70 school fund matched by the county.

Included in the present list is a number of English biographies, since the library is short on this type of books. The remainder of the order is composed principally of books of fiction.

The books are expected to arrive before school closes.

Members of the Bugle staff attended 50 of the 150 sectional meetings of the Columbia Scholastic Press Convention conducted at Columbia University, New York City. Evelyn Poole and Beth Bissette, staff members, presided over two of these sectional meetings.

After the general assemblies each day, each of the eight-member staff was assigned a different sectional meeting to attend and to take notes for a class report to be given on return to school.

MEETINGS

In each meeting some phase of newspaper work was discussed: advertising, leads, titles, sports, features, and others.

Most of the meetings were conducted by students, who either introduced an experienced advisor, or led round table discussions in which questions, answers, and ideas were exchanged by staff delegates from 27 states, representing over 750 newspapers and magazines.

LUNCHEON

Climaxing the convention was the luncheon at the Astor Hotel, at which time Col. Hans Christian Adamson, author of Eddie Rickenbacker, related his experiences with Rickenbacker while they drifted on a raft for 24 days in the Pacific Ocean.

The candle lighted birthday cake, representing the twenty-third birthday of the C.S.P.A., was brought into the ballroom on the shoulders of four waiters followed by other waiters with smaller molded cakes of ice cream.
