

The Past Comes To Date

Beginning with this issue, the BUGLE STAFF will publish a column bringing each graduating class up to date. As the first graduation exercises were in '25, the three who graduated that year are featured this month.

ANNIE LEE BOYETTE FARMER

Two years after graduation Annie Lee married Charlie L. Farmer, who was working for the Standard Oil Co. In 1928 they became the parents of a girl, Helen Augustine. The Farmers moved to Tarboro in 1938. After a few years in Tarboro, the husband, completing 17 years of work with the Standard Oil Co., went into an Esso Business for himself. The couple moved into their own home this year.

"My years since I graduated from high school have been pleasant ones," states Annie Lee.

WILLIAM FARMER (Major)

After graduation, William attended Front Royal Military Academy at Randolph Macon College, Virginia. Upon completing his studies at military school, he enrolled at Duke University to study medicine. He specialized in the treatment of the eye, ear, nose, and throat. Finishing his medical studies, he began practice in Durham. A few years afterwards he was drafted into the Arm and went overseas with the Duke unit to a base hospital in England. At present William has an office in Greensboro.

He married Elizabeth Celars from Burlington. An 18 months old daughter, Betsy, is an addition to the family.

CLARENCE EATON

In the fall of 1925 Clarence enrolled at King's Business College, Raleigh, and attended until Jan. 1926. A short while afterwards he married Lillie Mae Jones, Nashville, N. C. At present he is manager and secretary of the Starr Engraving Co. Raleigh, and treasurer of the Standard Office Supply Inc., Norfolk. He is a steward of the Edenton St. Methodist Church and a member of the Raleigh Exchange Club, Raleigh Shrine Club, and Sudan Temple AANOMS, New Bern, N. C.

Two '47 Seniors Receive $250 Scholarships

Mary Evelyn and Keith Glover, '47, were each winners of a $250 scholarship at the Farmer's Day Program of the Wilson Tobacco Exposition and Festival in August.

Mary Evelyn will use her scholarship at Woman's College; Keith, his at Duke.

Five $250 scholarships, donated by the sponsors of Queen For A Day program, were offered to lucky ticket holders.

Tickets were distributed to all '47 graduates entering the Wilson Stadium. Later the holders of the lucky tickets asked to come to the front were awarded the scholarships.

COLLEGE DRAWS HALF OF '47 GRADUATES

Fifteen of the '47 graduates have enrolled in college or business school; eight have obtained employment; five remain at home; and one is married.

Desiring to further their training in the commercial field, Pansy Rae Bisette, Odell Manning, and Phyllis Finch have begun studies at Hardbarger's Business College; and Sharon Bunn and Faylene Morgan, Raleigh School of Commerce. James Ray Stone, Pate Stone, and Al Williams have entered Carolina; Bobby Vick and Isaac Medlin, Appalachian State College; Keith Glover, Duke University; Mary E. Glover, Woman's College; Bobby Ray Meacomes, Oak Ridge; and Betty Doris Sanders, E. C. T. C.

WORKING

Madge Brantley has acquired work at the F.C.X. in Tarboro; Sarah Hooks and Ruby Rhodes, at the short factory, Wilson; Janice Medlin, at Farmer's and McPhail, Zebulon, on Saturday; Clara Jean Stone, at the Revenue Building, Raleigh; Mabel Vick, Durham; Mary Grey Wiggs, at Lamm's Dept. Store, Bailey; and Gladys Phillips works for the Baptist minister as secretary.

AT HOME

Remaining at home are Evelyn Finch, Nancy Finch, Daisy Liles, Effie Manning, and Kitty Lou Morgan.

Janice Bunn married John Glover during the summer and lives at Mt. Pleasant.