

Students More Than Circle Globe During Vacation

Traveling 35,800 miles during the summer, students of Bailey High covered more than the 25,000 miles of the world's circumference.

In their travels Patsy Lamm, senior, and Jean Morgan, freshman, visiting Georgia; Ruth Farmer, junior, New York; and Talmage and Evelyn Poole, freshman and senior, Nebraska, extended the boundaries farthest north, south, and west.

Washington, D. C., Chicago, New York, St. Louis, Nashville, Tenn., Harrisburg, Kansas City, Charleston, West Va., Dayton, and Lincoln were some of the leading cities visited by pupils this summer.

Spots of natural interest viewed by pupils were Natural Bridge, Mammoth Cave, Luray Caverns, Skyline Drive, and Smoky, Blue Ridge, and Allegheny Mountains.

Carolina Beach and White Lake ranked highest as the students' favorite resorts.

The number of pupils

traveling any distance during the vacation months was 62.
