Hyde Park, New York
July 6, 1947

Dear Evelyn,

In this last letter that you'll receive from me before my return home, I would like to let you in on some of the wonderful things I've seen and done while visiting New York City and Hyde Park, New York.

On my arrival in New York City, in order to go to Hyde Park, our destination, we got a chance to see both Penn and Grand Central Stations. It was quite interesting to look at the huge stations and watch the different people pass. We continued our journey on to Hyde Park. Here we visited the home of the late President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, his grave, and his library.

Several times we went into New York City. On my first visit, after a short stop over on the route to Hyde Park, we went up into the Empire State Building. This really gave me a queer feeling to know that I was in a building 1,250 feet high. The same afternoon we went to Radio City. After touring the huge building, we went to see a movie in the beautiful Radio City Music Hall. The movie was good, but the show held me in a daze.

That same night we went to see Vaughn Monroe and his orchestra. You remember him as the "Racing With the Moon" man.

I guess I'm saving this event -- the best for last, for I'm sure I've never seen anything as well timed and beautiful as "Ice Time," the largest ice show in the world. The pretty girls and picturesque costumes will make anyone's eyes beam.

In a few words I can summarize my trip as a grand experience and a well enjoyed one.

Truly yours,
Ruth Farmer
