

HERE AND NOW New Bus Arrives; No Second Loads

Because the materials used in building extra rooms to the school are stored in the gym, the Teenage meeting will be delayed until the materials can be removed.

MISS WILMA JOHNSON, freshmen homeroom teacher, has been named Assistant Business Manager of THE NORTH CAROLINA ENGLISH TEACHER, a quarterly publication by the English teachers of the state.

"To teach the use of films and other visual education aids in the classroom, a countywide visual education workshop has been set up for Nash County teachers," states M. W. Weaver, principal. Three films from the University of North Carolina Film Library will be shown to the students soon.

RUTH EATMON, freshman, has undergone an appendicitis operation at the Carolina General Hospital.

Attendance for the first, two weeks of school was sufficient to entitle an added teacher for the elementary school. Mrs. R. U. Moore, of Ayden, has been elected to fill the vacancy and becomes one of the first grade teachers.

To Sue Lassiter and Jean and Clara Faye Williams The BUGLE STAFF wishes to extend its appreciation for their cooperation in helping to publish the first issue of the BUGLE.

Bugle Attains Honor Rating For Second Time

For the second year the Bailey BUGLE has been given All-Columbian rating by CSPA. This year "the particular portion of the publication which stands out above all others" is the headlines.

During the school year '45 and '46 the BUGLE attained the All-Columbian rating for creative literary work.

NO SPECIAL AWARD

No award is given for this honor, since the association feels that special mention is reward in itself.

The awards are made "by the Board of Judges as they work on the publication in their specific classification".

Tennis Court Offers Recreation For Members

As a source of healthful recreation, the Business Men's Club of Bailey have built a tennis court across the street from the Methodist Church. A membership fee of $10 entitles any member to use the court.

Members of the tennis club, their guests, and students whose parents are members are allowed to use the court except when the grounds are too wet for playing.

W. R. Parsons, prominent citizen of the Bailey community, has directed the construction of the court.

Forward facing seats, a heater, and a windshield defroster are innovations on the new school bus driven by Elton Ray Horton, tenth grade student.

"We are supposed to get another new bus sometime this year, but I don't know when," states M. W. Weaver, principal. "Two of the buses are in poor condition but the others are fair. During the summer two buses were repainted".

MT. PLEASANT

In previous years one school bus has been stopping at Mt. Pleasant to provide transportation for those students, but now all buses come directly into Bailey. This eliminates the necessity of making second loads at Bailey.

Number Of Subjects Cut By Division Of Freshmen

"Thirteen of the forty-two high school class periods each day are devoted to the teaching of the two sections of the ninth grade," states M. W. Weaver, principal. "This, and the fact that we have more students and the same number of teachers, is causing the shortage of subjects available."

As a result of the increased number of periods demanded by the ninth grade, many juniors and seniors have found it impossible to take some of the subjects they prefer. In these cases students needing units to graduate are taking subjects of their second choice.
