

Gr. Mothers Visit Class

On Wednesday before Thanksgiving the fourth's grade mother, Mrs. Richard Thompson, visited them. After staying awhile she served each one a big apple and some candy. Mrs. Paul Pace, the fifth's grade mother, could not come, but sent a box of delicious home made cookies. Both grades really appreciated their nice Thanksgiving treat.

GRADE MOTHERS SERVE

Mrs. J. M. Burgoss and Mrs. Jeff Wiggs visited the fifth grade on the day before Thanksgiving. They brought large red apples and hard candy tied into individual packages. Mrs. Arthur Brown and Mrs. C. D. Phillips were unable to be here.

Everyone enjoyed the party and thanked the grademothers.

Our Christmas Preparation

"No, No, put that picture on the third board! Don't move it another inch. It's fine where it is!" If you heard this commotion, don't be alarmed! It's just the seventh grade getting ready for Santa and his sleight!

We are all busy drawing names, putting up pictures, painting snow scenes and wondering what we will get for Christmas. Some of us even want "Betsy Wetsy Baby Dolls," Imagine that!

Fourth Points Silhouettes

Many of us brought a piece of glass to school. We are painting silhouettes on them. We plan to give them to our mothers for Christmas. It is so much fun, but we have to be very careful so that we will not get the paint in the wrong place.

Sixth Gr. Hears Christmas Stories

The teacher has read the condensed story of Charles Dicken's Christmas Carol to the class. She is now reading Bird's Christmas Carol by Kate Douglas Wiggins.

The children look forward to the story hour each day.

HONOR ROLL STUDENTS

There were only two in the grammar grades who made the honor roll the past six weeks. Congratulations to Jan Perry in the seventh grade and Gene Finch in the eighth grade.

Students, are you working?

Sixth Grade Plans Tree

The Sixth Grade plans to decorate a Christmas tree in the front hall of the school building on December 8.

The tree has been selected on Mr. Clifton Bisette's farm. The children thank him for his gift, for it will bring happiness to many hearts.

Fifth Grade Makes Christmas Carol Booklets

The fifth grade students are making Christmas Carol Booklets. We copy a song every day. We are going to use colored paper for the back. On the front we plan to put a Christmas picture. We will know all the carols in our booklets by Christmas.

CLASS DESIGNS SCENE

Before Thanksgiving the elementary grades had been studying about Pilgrims and the first Thanksgiving so they decided to make a scene in their sand box about this. Ray Fulghum and Charles Rhodes made a house and church. Mrs. Christian had a pilgrim boy and girl, also, a turkey and pumpkin. Some of the other children brought leaves, trees, wheat, candy, and fruit. Placing this on the sand table it made a nice scene for Thanksgiving. Children from all the other grades came to the room to see it, and we got many nice compliments from them.
