

Behind The Scenes — By Frank Lewis

Anyone can certainly tell who got watches Christmas. Just watch Sue Lassiter, Maxine Modlih, and the Williams sister, Clara Faye and Corinna. They are continually looking at the time.

There are more ways than one (as the saying goes) of winning popularity. Jean Pace has discovered that one particular way is to set up a basketball goal.

Concoit is likely to drop to a low ebb around Bailey now, especially where one's voice is concerned, for now we can hear ourselves as others hear us. Ben T. has a voice recording set.

Jacqueline Collie is becoming quite a billard shark. Jack received a miniature pool table for a Christmas gift.

Don't be alarmed if you hear a deep moaning around Bailey at night. Willard Finch received a new clarinet for Christmas.

For once the high school body suddenly became quite stunned, as they said, by the discovery of a hidden talent of Mrs. Farmer's: the ability to play a piano.

Mrs. Lassiter must have been a beautiful baby, for she really looked pretty in baby bonnet New Year's Eve.

The general business students really betrayed themselves when Mrs. Lassiter asked them to make a time budget. You should have seen the small amount of sleep and study the students got as a whole.
