Typing I Patterns E. Post

Typing I students have made a thorough study of personal letters. For correct standards to be followed today the class observed Emily Post's regulations.

According to Emily Post, "All letters may be type-written today except the most formal note at the one extreme, and the most private note, at the other."

After typing several model letters, the students composed one of their own.

Budget Of Time In The Form Of A Pie Chart

In connection with the study of budgets Vivian Griffin's pie chart above was selected as being the most representative of how the average student's twenty-four-hour day is spent.
