

Freshmen Receive Recognition From Student Life

SENIORS TO PRESENT 'READY-MADE FAMILY' IN APRIL

Freshmen math class has received a request to submit original geometric designs applying to everyday life and pictures of the class at work for publication in Student Life. This recognition comes as a result of an article appearing in the December BUGLE.

Because the write-up, "Classes Draw Examples of Geometric Designs," showed evidence of the class's having gone deeper into the study of geometric designs than average, Miss Edith Farmer, math instructor, received a special request from Student Life, for an account of this phase of work.

OTHER MATERIAL

In addition to the material mentioned above, a picture of the author of the article, Octavia Beard, and a write-up, "How To Teach a Unit in Geometric Designs" is desired.

Rev. I. T. Poole, minister of the Bailey Methodist Church, made pictures of the class.

Absentees-During the last fifth month period there were 251 absentees because of sickness.

Enrollment-Principal M. W. Weaver states the school enrollment for this year is 604 students, but through the gain and loss of students there are now 557 pupils attending.

FACULTY FORMULATE NEW RULES

At the last faculty meeting it was decided to place restrictions on chewing gum and to close the present library.

Chewing gum is restricted in high school as a result of the decision of the teachers, "to help the students acquire one of the social graces."

The teachers claim that the "very unbecoming" habit of chewing gum was becoming too general.

As a result of the chewing gum rule, any student found with gum in his mouth three times will get D on conduct for the month.

The library will remain closed until it is housed in its new quarters. The teachers assert that it was being used too much for a "hang out" during study halls.

Individual teachers will go with their classes to the library when books are desired.

New Library Books-A purchase of library books amounting to $700 has recently been made.

News!-All seven buses are now in operation. "That's news", says Mr. Weaver.

Typewriters-Two new typewriters have been purchased for the typing dept.

"A Ready-Made Family", the seniors' three act comedy, is slated for April 9, at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. The play is centered around Agnes Martyne, a widow, portrayed by Evelyn Poole, class secretary, and Henry Turner, a widower, portrayed by Millard Morgan, class president.

PLOT

The plot of the play is based on the attempt of the children of Agnes Martyne and Henry Turner to prevent their parents' marriage. By pretending to be brats, incessant baby prattlers, victims of epilepsy, and kleptomaniacs, the children with the help of Lydia, the neurotic sister-in-law of Agnes, almost succeed in breaking up the match.

PROCEEDS

Proceeds from the play will be used to enable the class to leave the school an electric timer for the gym.

OTHER CHARACTERS

Other characters in the play are, Bob, widow's son, Billy Murray; Marilee, widow's daughter, Jackie Edwards; Gracie, widow's youngest child, Jacqueline Collie; Miss Lydia, widow's sister-in-law, Bernease Eatmon; Doris, widower's daughter, Lois Ray Pace; Sammie, widower's son, Bobby Perry; Begonia, Negro cook, Gladys Boykin; Nicodemus, Negro handy man, Frank Lewis.

Admission--25 and 35 cents.
