

GEOGRAPHY CLASS VISITS
CHAPEL HILL AND DURHAM

The geography students state that it was well worth their while to miss a day of school to visit Durham and Chapel Hill. In Durham they visited the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company and the Erwin Cotton Mills. At the Erwin Mills they saw how thread was made from cotton, how cloth was woven, and finally how the material was finished.

The Planetarium was the place of interest visited in Chapel Hill. They saw "Winter Stars". A myth or legend was told about the different constellations in the sky, how we have day and night, seasons, etc. This was both interesting and entertaining.

The following attended. Wilma Bunn, Louise Latmon, Dale Johnson, Delton Deans, Clayton Brock, Delton Glover, and the teacher Mrs. Lassiter.

Shorthand Class Increases In Enrollment

The unusually large shorthand class of 28 is made up of both juniors and seniors.

During the first semester much time was spent on reading stories and letters written in shorthand. Several students have a reading speed of 200 or more words a minute. One student, Lucy Blake Stone, read 309 words in one minute.

After we learned to read shorthand fluently, we started writing from well written shorthand. We soon learned to make the graceful "circles and curves" with ease.

The big moment came when we could "take a letter" and transcribe it.

The standard requirements to be met this year are 80 words on familiar material and 60 words on new material.
