

GIRLS JOIN BUS FLEET

Competing with the male bus drivers this school term are two senior girls. According to Jacqueline Winstead, her main motive in driving is the salary, which she hopes will defray her expenses at business school next year.

Janice Earp first became interested in becoming a bus driver last fall, when her brother, Earl Earp, drove home with his bus.

The girls report that their chief problems in driving the buses are discipline of students, the inability to repair the school buses if they should break down, the necessary rush to get the students to school on time, and the narrow roads.

Drivers for the other buses are Jerry Horton, sophomore; Roosevelt Warren, junior; Ray Jones Jordan, Clifton McKeel, Theron Saunders, Eldred Perry, seniors.

According to M. W. Weaver, principal, girls make "mighty good bus drivers: they take good care of their buses, and are not prone to recklessness."

If God had intended that you talk more than you hear, he would have given you two mouths instead of two ears.
