

13 STUDENTS TACKLE PUBLICATION OF SCHOOL PAPER THIS YEAR

Thirteen senior high students through their study of journalism are undertaking to publish again the Bugle.

After a two-year standstill, journalism is being offered this year to thirteen students, one tenth grader, three eleventh, and nine twelfth.

The Bugle will be published monthly by these students and financed with money procured from subscriptions and advertisements from Wilson and Bailey township.

Other than publishing the Bugle, the journalism students will get experience in soliciting and designing ads, interviewing, writing news and sports articles—clear and objectively—using and caring for the mimeoscope and mimograph, and developing such character traits as promptness, accuracy, and dependability.

Under the leadership of Mrs. A. H. Farmer, journalism teacher, and Mrs. Laurine Lassiter, commercial teacher, these students are striving to publish the best and most informative Bailey Bugle.
