

More Fiction Finds Way To Shelves

Forty-seven books for the high school and grammar grade libraries were purchased by Principal M. W. Weaver with a portion of the State Library Funds during the summer.

The State Library Fund is divided equally among the state-allotted teachers to buy library books.

Included among the forty-seven new books are Senior Year, Jane Adams, Catch A Falling Star, and Rings on Her Fingers.

Late Comers Welcomed To Student Body

Entering school after the appointed time, August 30, are Betty Lou Nichols, C. D. Mullens, and Pete Strickland, eleventh graders; Joyce Williams, tenth grade; Dan Glover, ninth grade; Shirley Williams, eighth grade; and Mac Burgess, seventh grade.

Canada claimed C. D. Mullens, who worked in tobacco there this summer.

Transferring of schools was the cause of Betty Lou Nichols' tardiness. Also transferring were Joyce Williams and Shirley Williams who came from Rock Ridge.

Pete Strickland, who stopped school last year, has rejoined the high school as has Dan Glover.

Stricken by infantile paralysis during the summer, Mac Burgess, member of the seventh grade, has now returned to school.

The pupils and faculty welcome these new additions to the student body.

Eighth Grade Presents Comical Hit

Well at last the mystery is solved!! The whole high school had wondered for days why the eighth grade had been singing at the top of their voices "I Didn't Know The Gun Was Loaded."

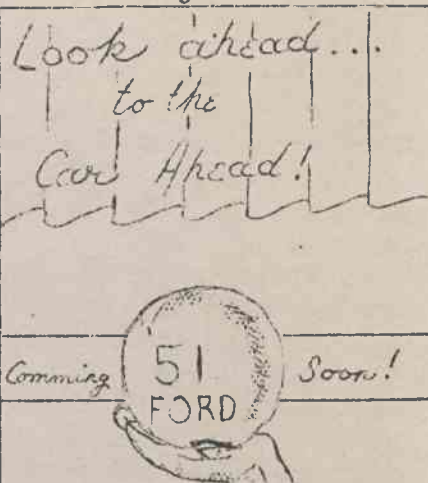

Under the leadership of Miss Oglesby, home room teacher, and Mrs. Tichenor, public school music teacher, the eighth acted out that popular song of a few months back, "I Didn't Know the Gun Was Loaded."

The stage was transformed into a typical court room with Douglas Brown as judge. On the right of the judge were seated the jury; on the left a chorus of girls dressed in colorful cowgirl suits told the story in song.

When Billie Fay Perry, as Miss Effie, came prancing out in a complete cowgirl suit on, the student body let out a terrific howl.

The program climaxed with

Miss Effie being shot in the court room by the sheriff's jealous wife.

You Can Pay More
But You
Can't Buy Better
"There's A Ford
In Your Future"
PARSON MOTOR CO.
PHONE 221

COVER
THE EARTH
with

SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINT
Color Style Your Home!

SEE OUR S. W. P. STYLE GUIDE

R. M. Meacomes & Son