Sophomore Wins National Recognition

Sending a sportsmanship problem to Mind Your Manners, a panel discussion program designed to advise teen-agers on their adolescence problems, brought Jan Perry, sophomore, a Wittnawer wrist-watch as first prize for having her problem discussed on the air Saturday, October 28.

Mind Your Manners is a NBC presentation broadcasted each Saturday morning at ten o'clock over WPTF in Raleigh.

Jan declares that Mind Your Manners is a very informational program that would benefit every teenager. She recommended it to any person interested in hearing every-day problems discussed.

Faculty Curbs Student Slackness

To encourage more studying, the faculty is bringing pressure upon the student body to decrease the interruption of classes, skipping classes and homeroom period, going to the gym too often, and getting off classes for various reasons.

Students are not to interrupt classes any longer to speak to a teacher or students unless something urgent comes up that can not be attended to be-

Students Committee Name Cheerleaders

Holding the spotlight at the first basketball game of the season by their spirited yells will be the Bailey cheer leaders--Bobby Lamm, Barue Winstead, Doris Murray, Jackie Vicke, Joyce Williams, Bruce Finch--dressed in new white suits with green and gold letter.

Miss Idalia Oglesby will serve as faculty advisor.

At chapel last Wednesday, eleven students were nominated by the student body as prospective cheer leaders. Monday, after a pep rally in chapel, six were selected from the eleven on the basis of their demonstrated ability.

It was Principal M. W. Weaver's belief that the students would respond much better than in former years if they elected their cheerleaders.

The cheer leader's suits were paid for by the athletic association.

Junior Receives Award

For outstanding salesmanship, Irene Glover, junior, received unexpectedly from the Curtiss Magazine Company a plastic and bronze trophy.

Expert salesmanship in the magazine subscription contest, held earlier in the year by the junior class, netted $95.40 or--subscriptions for Irene. These sales, surpassing those of any other junior student, made Irene the highest saleslady.

Senior Play Success

After three weeks of preparation, the seniors, under the direction of Miss Rebecca Tomlinson, presented their class play, CAMPUS QUEEN, to a full audience last Friday night. The play netted $133.

That the audience liked the play was revealed in the comments heard after the play; Everyone did his part well; it was well cast; the play showed evidence of good coaching; it's one of the best ever given at Bailey.

tween classes.

Students' skipping classes has brought about the regulation that every time a person skips a period he is suspended until further notified that he may return to school. Points are subtracted from the conduct grade for skipping homeroom period.

Interruption of class work by the demands of other activities is to be cut to a minimum says principal Weaver.
