

Fashion Trends -- By Jackie Vicke

Now that the Easter season has passed, our thoughts turn to the gay, brightly-colored frocks of spring.

Cotton, as usual, steps out in all of its fresh gay colors and different designs to capture the spotlight of spring.

There are two-tone dresses in two parts which tie with a big sash at the waist; cherry broad-cloths ruled off with strips of white eyelet embroidery; tuck-bodiced dresses of navy-and-wine; mauve-and-green plaids; pink-and-wine checked gingham dresses sans sleeves and smug pink cotton jersey jackets to match; and, probably the most popular, the all-white dresses with or without touches of color.

Since white is the most important neutral this season, jewelry, hats, gloves, and veils in white will definitely be used with the entire white outfit, or to "whiten up" color costumes.

SHOES

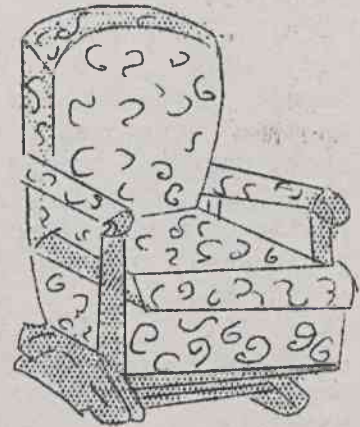

Pale, soft colors for spring shoes go well with your new spring frocks. For instance, there are the scalloped-tongue wedgies of milky tan and pale yellow, the cupid's bow pump of smooth leather in many colors, the classic-wedgie in Palomino, the Alice-in-Wonderland pumps in soft kid and polish of colors, and the Curtsie flat-heeled classic.

TOPPERS

Almost a "must" for spring is a topper, cleverly designed and cut just for your taste.

These light coats come in navy, beige, grey, blue, or a whitish-beige to go with any costume.
