

Beginners Study Birds

Along with their study of birds and their habits, Mrs. Floribelle Dynum's beginners are making bird booklets and memorizing poems.

One poem the class likes is

THE BLUE JAY

A noisy blue jay in the tree
Outside my window screamed at me.
"Get up, get up," the blue jay said.
"Get up, get up, you sleepyhead!"
"All right," I said to the noisy jay.
"I'm getting up. Now go away."
"Get up," he screamed again and fled
To waken others still in bed.

The flowers

By Janet Weaver
Third Grade

As I was going along one day
Do you know what I met along the way?
Some flowers tripping all along;
They seemed to be singing a song.

The flowers were out with all the beast.
They seemed to be nicer than a feast.
The flowers were tripping along;
They seemed to be singing a song.

The federal government again donated eleven baskets of apples for the lunchroom's use.

Seventh Grade Makes History Display

Mrs. Clarence Parker's seventh grade has made a free hand drawing of an American history picture show.

They started at the beginning of the book and have drawn a picture of every important incident in the book. They plan their drawing throughout the book.

Several rooms have been shown the pictures.

Mothers Serve

Mrs. Rudolph Glover's third grade was served at Easter by their grade-mothers, Mrs. Madeline Boykin, Mrs. Leamon Tapp, Mrs. E. J. Cozart, and Mrs. Brooks Privette.

Girls Make Perfect Record

For the past two months three girls--Jean Brown, Jane Patterson, Margaret Earo--have attained perfect attendance. All three are pupils in Mrs. Effie Mae Hagwood's first and second grade combination and are the only girls enrolled in the class.
