

Maternal Love Inspires Mrs. Kermit Lewis To Apply For School Work

Wanting to be a part of the school which her boys attended led Mrs. Kermit Lewis to apply for the lunchroom supervisor's position eight years ago.

Some of the things she likes to do best are to watch the children smile if they enjoy the food, to see the students' determination as they go by, to observe their interests and cooperation, and to reflect upon their different personalities.

"Everyday is a new experience for those who work with children," says Mrs. Lewis. "Understanding, love, and appreciation must be in a person before he or she can have patience with children," she further commented.

"I have learned by experience," says Mrs. Lewis, "to think twice before saying anything. When you hear a remark, never repeat it."

Mrs. Lewis admits that the students' love and appreciation is half of her life.

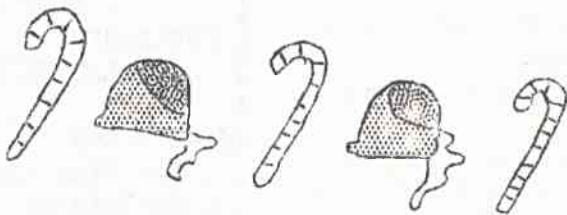

Working in flowers, cleaning house, preparing meals for the family are other duties and hobbies engaged in by Mrs. Lewis.
